President Wilson Cables Memorial Day Message

WASHINGTON, May 29.—President Wilson has cabled the following Memorial Day message:

"My fellow countrymen:—Memorial Day wears this year an added significance, and I wish, if only by a message, to take part with you in its observation and in expressing the sentiments which it inevitably suggests. In observing the day we commemorate not only the reunion of our own country but also now the liberation of the world from one of the most serious dangers to which free government and the free life of men were ever exposed. We have buried the gallant and now immortal men who died in this great war of liberation with a new sense of consecration. Our thoughts and purpose now are consecrated to the maintenance of the liberty of the world and of the union of its people in a single comradeship of liberty and of right. It was for this that our men conscientiously offered their lives. They came to the field of battle with the high spirit and pure heart of crusaders. We must never forget the duty that their sacrifice has laid upon us of fulfilling their hopes and their purposes to the utmost. This, it seems to me, is the impressive lesson and the inspiring mandate of the day.

"WOODROW WILSON."

MR. ROGERS' APPEAL

He Would Validate Policies of Soldiers Who Died After Filing Application

Special to The Sun
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 29.—Congressman Rogers of the fifth Massachusetts district has taken up with the treasury department the matter of paying insurance to the families of men who had made application for such war risk, but who died in camp very soon after. Under a former ruling of the department such policies were invalidated and the families deprived of the benefit intended by congress to all soldiers who applied for insurance and who died in the service. Mr. Rogers believes such a ruling to be unjust and Acting Secretary Shouse, with whom Mr. Rogers took the matter up, has advised him that a reversal of the ruling is probable and has asked Mr. Rogers to aid the war risk bureau by suggesting some method or policy which will better the situation. In case the former decision is reversed the old cases, formerly denied, will be reopened.

Permission For Passage of Carranza Force Through U. S. Territory Refused

WASHINGTON, May 29.—President Carranza has been notified by the American government that permission for the passage of Mexican troops through American territory will be withheld for the present. Mexico asked permission to move 2000 men from Agua Prieta to Juarez for operations against Villa.

It was said today officially that the decision of the government was based on the belief that the force which it was proposed to move through Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, would not be able to furnish protection to American citizens in northern Mexico because the revolutionists had cut the road between Juarez and Chihuahua.

FIELD DAY AT SPALDING PARK

Boys and Girls of Lowell High School Present Excellent Program

Parade Striking Feature—Reviewed at City Hall by City Officials

Before fully 5000 people at Spalding park this afternoon the boys and girls of the Lowell high school presented their annual field day program, a kaleidoscopic review of military, physical and aesthetic marchings, maneuvers and dances. It is always the gala day of the year when every boy and girl looks his best and her very best and mothers and fathers, sisters and brothers, cousins and aunts almost without number filled every available seat in grandstand and bleachers and overflowed on the field on every side.

Previous to the exercises at the park the boys' regiment and the girls' battalions marched through the downtown streets passing in review at city hall before Mayor Perry D. Thompson and members of the city government. The units formed in Paige and Kirk streets at 12.30 o'clock the girls leading. The United States Cartridge Co. band played tuneful marching music and the high school drum corps kept the boys in strict cadence.

It would be hard to picture a more striking parade than that formed by the girls in their white skirts and middie blouses and white shoes and stockings, each battalion wearing designating colored arm bands and flowing ties. The blue serge stiffs of the officers trimmed with gold insignia braid contrasted effectively with the moving sea of spotless white.

The boys looked more business-like, but even they were all dressed up for the occasion. It is always a gripping fear prior to field day that rain will fall and ruin, stiffly starched trousers, but the sun shone smilingly today and the boy soldiers never looked better in their white trousers, blue coats and canvas leggings. The non-commissioned officers wore the customary blue and white piping, while the blue and gold of the commissioned men added dignity and color to the scheme.

After passing city hall the battalions turned back toward Merrimack square where the girls left the line of march and were hustled into waiting special electric for the trip to the park. The boys, however, after looking longingly after the speeding cars turned into Central street and proceeded to the park on foot by way of Central Church and Rogers streets.

Every available chair, camp stool and point of vantage was occupied when the regiment, led by Col. Curtis Rice, Jr., turned in at the park gates. As the boys came on to the field eight companies marching in column of squads, they were applauded to the echo. The girls already were on the field and at once both girls and boys combined in the maneuvers of the assembly or salute to the colors. The beautiful regimental and battalion standards were brought to the front and the ceremony was made extremely impressive.

It was the object of those in charge to conduct the exercises this year with as much promptness as possible and well thought plans had been made in preparation. Immediately at the close of the assembly the field was cleared and the three companies previously picked from the boys' regiment in an elimination drill were marched on to drill for the company prizes—the blue and red standards and the captain's sword for the best appearing company. From the grandstand it was indeed difficult to pick a flaw in the marchings of the three units, but the judges were busy with pad and pencil so evidently few slips not visible to the majority of spectators. The awards were withheld until the close of the program.

EXERCISES IN SCHOOLS

Memorial Day Programs Today, in the Public and Parochial Schools

Memorial day exercises in which the veterans of three wars received copious laurels were carried out in the local schools today and the programs this year were unusually interesting. Especially prevalent were references to the veterans of the world war and there was rarely a program that did not carry a panegyric for the men who died in the recent conflict as well as the martyrs of previous struggles.

Owing to the fact that field day was being held, there were no exercises at the high school and many of the grammar schools held their exercises in the morning rather than afternoon so that the pupils might attend the exercises at Spalding park.

There were no formal exercises at the Green or Riverside schools and at the Washington school the programs were carried out in the individual classrooms.

Following the parade will be the meeting of the Spanish War Veterans and Post 42 of the G. A. R. in Memorial hall. Later in the evening he will attend the supper of the Sons of Veterans and Post 181 at the First Universalist church. Last but not least will come the campfire meeting of Post 120 in its hall. Outside of that, the mayor will have a very quiet holiday.

PARADE WILL BE BIG FEATURE

G. A. R. and Other Organizations Will Visit the Various Cemeteries

Parade To Start From South Common at 4 P. M.—Exercises in the Evening

Lowell's 1919 observance of Memorial day promises to be one of the most pretentious and significant in years and practically every organization in the city, social, fraternal and military, will have a part in making the day's observance worthy of the traditions of the veterans of three wars whose martyred comrades are to be honored with imposing solemnity.

Not only will those who gave up their lives in the Civil, Spanish-American and world wars be lauded, but the living veterans will also be tendered receptions worthy of their valor and gallantry.

As usual, the high light of the day's program will be the time-honored Memorial day parade in the afternoon. Members of the G. A. R. will have the place of honor at the head of the line, preceded only by their escort, the Sons of Veterans. In past years, the veterans have drawn up at the end of

NEW LONDON, Conn., May 29.—Fire in the hallway of a rooming house early today trapped 25 persons on upper floors and most of them were slightly hurt or burned in escaping. Robert Taft, 35, formerly of Pittsfield, Mass., was killed by a fall from a third floor window; J. Halman Jacobson had both legs broken by a second floor jump, and his wife had her hair burned off. Ruby Dickston, three months' old, dropped three stories into the arms of a negro sailor, but may die. Rowland Dickston, two years, was caught by the same sailor unharmed. The cause of the fire is undetermined and the loss is $15,000.

HAWKER BELITTLES THE AMERICAN FLIGHT

LONDON, May 28. (By A. P.)—Speaking at a luncheon given by the Daily Mail yesterday in his and Lieut. Commander Griev's honor, Harry G. Hawker belittled the organization which had won for the United States the honor of the first crossing of the Atlantic by a heavier-than-air machine.

He declared that it was not a serious attempt, with a ship stationed at "every 20 yards."

"If you put a ship every 20 miles it shows you have no faith in your motor," he said.

This was greeted with absolute silence on the part of the men gathered at the luncheon, numbering between 250 and 300, nearly all of whom were British. A few minutes before they had cheered the statement that the American navy aviators had been successful in reaching Europe.

Hawker disclosed that on Saturday night, immediately preceding his start, he and Raynham had agreed that unless the wind changed they would start on Sunday for a flight by way of the Azores and Portugal. The wind veered slightly Saturday night, enough to give Hawker and Griev the chance to start from their airbase, but it was unfavorable for Raynham.

He declared that although the weather

was unfavorable, the success of the Americans forced him to start. "Any Englishman here," he said, "would have done the same thing under the same circumstances."

Lieut. Commander Griev said he was very nervous over his navigation abilities when he started, but soon ascertained that the navigation of an airplane was the same as of a ship.

There were no difficulties until the clouds precluded the taking of sightings. He predicted that the navigation of airplanes would be a simple matter in the future.

The Daily Mail's 5000 pounds consolation prize was presented to the two airmen.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

A pretty miscellaneous shower was held recently at the home of Mrs. Jas. Clarke, 366 Chalmers street in honor of Miss Annie Clarke, who is soon to become the bride of Mr. Charles Howard. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion. The bride-to-be was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, including linen and cut glass. Although taken by surprise she responded in a fitting manner, thanking her many friends who were present. A delightful musical program was carried out in which the bride-to-be took a leading part. There were solos by Helen Sweeney, Mrs. McVey and Mrs. Rogers. Mrs. Howard, Misses May McCusker, Vera Naple, Jennie Clark. Refreshments were served after which games were enjoyed. The accompanists of the evening were Mrs. James Clark and

U. S. ARMY TODAY IS REAL UNIVERSITY

Private Edward Holton James, U. S. army recruiting service, spoke at four local theatres last evening in the interest of enlistments for the army. His address was listened to with interest. Through the courtesy of the managements of the Merrimack Square, the Strand, Keith's and the Owl theatres he talked at length in each of these houses. Private James has had the interesting experience of being detained three years in a German prison because of utterances which were not entirely in accord with the views of the German government. In his speech last evening the soldier said that the army today is a real university which can give an education equal to any given by other institutions. The army is to play a big part in the future of the country and the elite of the nation will be found within its ranks. He urged young men to get in touch with Sergt. McLeod at the local recruiting station, 117 Merrimack street, where the advantages of the service will be explained.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERRED. The real estate holdings known for many years as the heirs of Maria T. Stevens have been transferred by a declaration of trust to three trustees and will hereafter be known as the Stevens Trust. The trustees are Tyler A. Stevens of Lowell and James H. Joliffe and John H. Schoonmaker of Ware, Mass. The estate includes the American House property and other buildings in Central, Market and Middle streets. The property was acquired by Jonathan Tyler in 1821.

SURVIVORS OF TUSCANIA

Members of Sixth Battalion of 20th Engineers Return—Santa Paula Arrives

NEW YORK, May 29.—Many of the men of the sixth battalion of the 20th Engineers who came on the transport Santa Paula from Bordeaux yesterday, were survivors of the Tuscania, which was torpedoed off Ireland on Feb. 5, 1918. The 20th Engineers is the largest regiment in the American army with a total of 20,000 men, all lumberjacks, sawmill men and foresters from all over the country. Fourteen officers and 506 men of the regiment were on the Santa Paula, which brought a total of 2212 troops, including detachments of the 309th Infantry, 75th Division, and a detachment of the 321st Field Artillery, 82d Division. Fifty-eight officers and 1956 men of the 356th Infantry, 59th arrived from Brest on the cruiser Huntington. The Henry R. Mallory brought 27 officers and 1205 men of the 349th Infantry 85th Division; detachments of the 20th Engineers and the 274th Military Police company.

TELEPHONE GIRLS HOLD ANNUAL MAY PARTY

Lincoln hall was a bower of beauty last evening, the occasion being the annual May party of the Lowell telephone operators, and the girls and boys forgot their bells, transmitters, plugs and switches as they danced away the too short hours on the polished floor to the strains of Markham's Novelty orchestra.

The dance program consisted of 14 numbers and four extras, and the gay colors worn by the young women, contrasted against the darker and more sombre hues of their partners, lent a colorful and pleasing effect to the event.

Here and there among the happy throng of terpsichorean devotees could be seen the erect forms of boys in khaki, recently returned from overseas, and who were willing to "tell the world" most emphatically that it was some treat to tread the light fantastic again with a Lowell girl.

During the intermission teas were served by John F. Roane, Jr., and proved most acceptable, for the evening was almost too hot for indoor dancing.

Fully four hundred couples made up the evening's attendance, and as they regretfully looked for hats and wraps when the Big Ben at the postoffice tolled the midnight hour all were willing to go on record that the party had been one of the most enjoyable they had ever looked in on.

Last evening's party was a joint event by the two unions, 19A and 552. The proceeds of the dance are to be used by the committee to furnish their newly acquired club rooms in Lincoln hall building.

LICENSE BOARD HOLDS HEARINGS

Archie Perron, who formerly maintained a lunch cart in Market street near the corner of Adams street, has moved his cart into one of the buildings in Cardinal O'Connell parkway and has filed an application for a license with the license commission. Inasmuch as there was opposition to the granting of the license by some unknown parties, a hearing on the matter was held before the commission at its last regular meeting.

Albert J. Hinson, appearing for Mr. Perron, informed the commission that a permit for the placing of the cart in the building had been secured from the office of the inspector of buildings at city hall and that most of the work, involving an expense of over a thousand dollars was almost completed. He asked the commission to act favorably on the application of his client.

Cornelius J. O'Neil appeared for remonstrants, names not given, and objected to the granting of the license on the ground that a lunch cart would interfere with the beauty of the parkway. He pointed out that the city has expended the sum of $75,000 in laying out the parkway and that sum was spent willingly to beautify that part of the city. He also stated that in his opinion there was no pressing need for a lunch cart in that particular part of the street. The hearing was continued until next Tuesday.

At the same meeting Officer Holland protested against the jitney regulations in the vicinity of Paige street and said the congregation of chauffeurs in the street was a nuisance. He asked the commission to take such action deemed necessary to remedy conditions. Lieut. Peirle stated that it required the services of two officers to keep jitney conditions in Paige street in running order.

Café-Cawfee COFFEE

Three soldiers crouched in the front line trench—cold, weary, hungry. Suddenly—they sniffed, smiled and said in unison—"Café," "from the Poila;" "Cawfee," "from the Tommy; and from the Yank—"Coffee!"

COFFEE is the fighting man's drink. It did its bit in the war right manfully. In the camp, on the march, at the front, in the hut and hospital, wherever men fought and bled and suffered and died—there was coffee.

Ever and always the cry was—coffee! Because it gives cheer and comfort, and courage. It is soothing, quieting, sustaining. The tired man calls for it. Exhausted nature asks for it. After the lesson of this war—who shall say that coffee is not healthful—and needful?

Be thankful for coffee—for the delight of it, the benefit of it, the real downright goodness of it. There is nothing in the world you would miss one-half so much as coffee—if you were suddenly deprived of it!

Indeed—coffee is one of the truest and "real-est" of friends that Nature has given to men. Let us rejoice in it, and revel in it. Let us glory in the charm and flavor and piquancy of it. Let us toast our friends in it—"Here's to your health and happiness!"

Routine business was transacted at the regular meeting of Dorcas Temple Pythian Sisters, which was held last evening and interesting remarks were made by Deputy Grand Chief Agnes Austin of Medford. SALVATION ARMY FUND

Final Reports, Submitted at Last Night's Meeting, Put
Lowell Over the Top

Over the top again!
Yes, the "Salute" drive went up and over the hurdle at last evening's meeting, and once more the city of Lowell can take its place in the ranks of the cities and towns who carried through a winning campaign.

The quota assigned to the city was set at $22,000, and the reports made at the meeting showed a total of $32,191 to date and pledges made by various corporations which will bring the final total to considerable more.

Following the reports of the team captains, Mayor Thompson, chairman of the local drive made a brief speech in which he thanked every team captain and worker for the manner in which they had "carried on" for the doughnut girl.

He paid a special tribute to the four Elk teams, who have borne the major share of the work in the campaign, and whose report of last evening, made by the chairman, Samuel Scott, showed that they have raised over $2000 of the funds secured, making over one-fourth of the total amount contributed during the drive.

His Honor also took occasion to thank the theatrical managers who have given of their time and efforts to help send the drive over the top, and through whose untiring labors many additional dollars have come the "Salute" way.

The mayor then introduced Hon. James R. Casey, vice chairman of the drive and head of Division A, who thanked the members of his team for the way they had worked during the past week and also paid a glowing tribute to the angel lassies, who have come to mean more than words can tell to the boys who are daily coming back from the battlefields "over there."

Charles W. Halstead, chairman of Division B, was next called upon by His Honor to say a few words, and he also added his tribute to the work accomplished by his fellow-campaigners.

Adjutant Clark was the final speaker. He said that he was too full of thankfulness to say much, and added that the Salvation Army had made good in the past and would try and

FREED FROM THE PHYSIC HABIT

"I had stomach trouble and constipation very bad for a long time. Tried everything, but kept getting worse. I could hardly eat anything and my bowels wouldn't move unless I took a physic every day. I have to support myself and two children, yet I was not able to work."

"The first bottle of Milks Emulsion did wonders for me, and I have continued its use until now I feel fine and can work every day. I have a good appetite, my stomach trouble has left me, and my bowels are as regular as clock work."—Mrs. Mary Widener, 103 S. Court St., Sioux City, Iowa.

Mrs. Widener found out what all sufferers should know—that pills, salts and physics do not end constipation, but usually make it worse. Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to run-down nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of asthma, chronic bronchitis, and tuberculosis of the lungs. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A truly wonderful medicine for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee: Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by Fred Howard—Adv.

COURT MARTIAL TRIAL

Nace Case Ends—Trial Judge Says Soldier Either Deserted or Plotted With Huns

AYER, May 29.—Closing arguments were made yesterday in the trial of Paul L. Nace, a private at Camp Devens, who in defense of a charge of desertion declared that he was kidnapped and detained aboard a German submarine because of his knowledge of certain airplane improvements.

Lieut. Francis M. Flanagan, counsel for Nace, said that not a single piece of evidence had been introduced successfully to contradict the story told by the accused man. Nace, he declared, was under cross-examination for six hours without making one contradictory statement.

"Only an honest person sure of the facts," he said, "could take the stand and conduct himself as Nace did. The boy's story was corroborated by witnesses both for the prosecution and the defense and by documentary evidence collected by expert investigators, who were straining every effort to secure some evidence that he was not telling the truth."

In the argument for the prosecution, Lieut. E. H. Ziegler, trial judge-advocate of the court-martial, declared Nace "either was in touch with German agents and had voluntarily gone aboard the German submarine to turn over his plans or else the whole story is a falsehood and he deliberately deserted."

Lieut. Ziegler declared that Nace's knowledge of mathematics was so deficient that he could not possibly have evolved plans of an airplane motor which would revolutionize aviation and said that drawings submitted to the court demonstrated no mechanical ability. As a possible motive for Nace wishing to leave the service, he said that his regiment at the time was scheduled to sail soon for France.

Private Nace was absent from Camp Devens from May 1 to October of last year. According to his story to the court he was kidnapped near the camp and taken by automobile to the coast where he was placed aboard a German submarine and kept prisoner throughout the summer. He finally got off and swam ashore near the Cape Henry lighthouse on the Virginia coast. As he was being taken away from Camp Devens he managed to write a note telling of his predicament which he dropped from a truck, he said. Testimony regarding the receipt of such a note at the camp was presented and witnesses also told of Nace coming ashore at Cape Henry in October. Official records were introduced to show that submarines were operating off the coast during the period that Nace was absent from camp.

Capt. Norman Harrower, of Fitchburg, the last witness, testified for the prosecution regarding a letter received at Camp Devens telling of Nace's plight. The defendant asserts that he wrote this letter while confined in a box on an automobile truck en route to the point where he was taken aboard the submarine.

Harrower, who was divisional intelligence officer at the time said the letter bore the postmark of some city in New York. It was poorly written and looked as though it was either the product of a man with little education or had been written in a moving vehicle. The irregularities however were not so great as they would have been if they had been written on the floor of a moving truck in the opinion of the witness. Immediately after receiving the letter Harrower called Nace's company together and found that he was absent without leave. The letter was regarded as a hoax at the time.

On cross examination the witness repeated from memory the contents of the letter which said that Nace had been kidnapped and was being taken to a German submarine and asked that the navy department be notified. In reply to questions he said that the matter was being "given all deserved investigation" but that the navy department was not notified.

It's really very much worth while to stand at Broadway and 42d street in New York and watch the parade of the female of the species, more often than not accompanied by her male escort. But right here in Merrimack square, if one has some spare time between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock at night, one can witness a parade, too, and it's not so bad at that.

The spool-heel division, with their escorts of bronzed and husky dough-boys, own the square each evening at this time, as the cavaliers and their fair ladies saunter along on their way to movie, dance, vaudeville show or "just for a walk."

From the spirals on which the rain-bow girls of the present season pirouette across the square in skirts too narrow to permit of such an old-fashioned sport as walking, to the tips of the fancy feathers that crown the high-topped hats, they are very colorful paraders, unlike any seen before since their sweethearts went overseas to follow the colors.

Arm in arm with the returned heroes of the 26th and other divisions, those of the feminine rainbow contingent radiate good cheer, and much of it is no doubt due not only to the fact that the boys are home, but in good measure also to the sense of being gowned to desire.

The boys have brought back the words to describe the flaming French tones that are oftentimes seen in the trimming of summer bonnets, rather than in the suit or coat. Chic indeed are the fur ties and short squirrel neck-pieces, charming the bearded sage that have a new vogue this spring. Elaborately buckle-trimmed are the pumps which defy man's comprehension when any attempt is made to find a reason for woman's leaning toward these tottering, tripping, upbuilding spool heels aforesaid.

How to navigate in the trouser-skirts is something which is a great puzzle to the sailors who drop around now and then for a brief look at the Spindle City's paraders. Their wide

Bye and bye, along about 9 o'clock, the paraders begin to grow fewer and fewer and, unlike that ill' ol' Broadway, one must go elsewhere if he wishes to find other objects than the bladders whizzing by to divert his attention.

While it is admitted by the greatest men of the age that there is only one Broadway, still our Merrimack square isn't so much behind the times after all.

Below is what the press agents of the different theatres say of the current attractions and of others to come:

B. F. KEITH THEATRE
In no act seen at the Keith theatre this present year have so many funny things occurred as in the Busby and St. John school, which is specially featured on this week's bill. The demonstration of how riders are taught is that portion of the act in which everybody just lets go and laughs to his heart's content. It is unusual, wholesome, funny to the very limit. The regular riders of the act also do a nice piece of work. Comedy plays a large part in the musical act of Ward and Van. Good musicians are they, but they tuck in some deft touches which nobody will fail to understand. Horace Wright and Rene Dietrich have an act of prettiness and good music. Both have entertained the soldiers in France, and they have brought back with them reminiscences of their months "over there." Other acts on the bill are: Neff and Murray, blackface comedians; Bl. Clave, the little xylophonist; Conway and Fields, singing and patter; and La Emma and Boyd, acrobats.

THE STRAND
Into recent film history have been written the names of a variety of capable actors who have entertained the public by providing thrills. In this class belongs George Walsh, former speed king of the cinder path and erstwhile player of professional baseball. Walsh doesn't ask us to take our thrills in homeopathic doses either, and he gives us with them, for good measure, a palatable coating of comedy. In witness whereof is cited "Help! Help! Police," which is being shown at The Strand for the last three days of the week. Don't miss it.

It's hardly necessary to again inform the patrons that "Common Clay," the wonderful Harvard prize play, is attracting banner crowds at all performances. Fannie Ward in the role of "Ellen Neal," the young girl who finds it hard to resist temptation, but just lets go and laughs to his heart's content. It is unusual, wholesome, funny to the very limit. TIGHTENS HER SKIN—LOSES HER WRINKLES

Soldier Wanted Uncle Sam

Sought "Comps" For Seven
—"Must Have Been Great-
est Soldier," Says Clark

BREAST, May 29.—Correspondence of the Associated Press.—American soldiers who escaped from the embrace of Mars but who fell before the darts of Cupid and married French girls are permitted by Uncle Sam to bring home their brides at the expense of the government.

Recently there appeared at the troop movement office a burly sergeant, accompanied by a woman bearing a babe in arms, three other anxious looking women, an elderly woman and an old gentleman.

They were respectively, the wife, baby, sisters-in-law, mother-in-law and father-in-law of the sergeant. He wanted them to return to America with him.

"You won't," said the desk officer, "you must have been the greatest soldier of them all; you certainly have nerve."

Autoists in Court

G. Zuber and Frank Burkhousen, all of Lawrence, who pleaded guilty and paid fines of $7 each; Charles A. Kunhart and Samuel Katz of Lawrence, whose cases were continued until June 12; and Donald C. Bennick, William J. Henderson of Boston and Samuel L. Cogan of Haverhill, who pleaded not guilty and whose cases were disposed of as follows: Bennick, $1 fine; Henderson, $15 fine; Cogan, $12 fine.

Two officers representing the Massachusetts state highway commission appeared for the prosecution, and testified that during the past three weeks they had apprehended the ten men on the Lawrence boulevard, and that their headlights were not properly dimmed as provided by the statutes.

The specific charges alleged against the defendants was that the headlights on their machines were not so arranged that no dazzling rays from them or from them were not more than three and a half feet above the ground on a level road at a distance of 50 feet or more.

So far as is known these are the first cases of this kind which have come before the local court, and the various angles and ramifications of the law were thrashed out at considerable length before the cases were concluded.

Other offenders
"My little boy was crying for the flowers so I picked some for him," was the defense offered by Charles Rose, whose case was charged with unlawfully picking flowers in Fort Hill park. He was found guilty and paid a fine of $5.

William Burns and Kriger Onanish were charged with receiving stolen property, alleged to belong to the U. S. Bobbin Co. A continuance was granted until June 6, and pleas of not guilty entered by both.

Samuel Russell and Dora Lyons pleaded guilty to a statutory charge, and their cases were ordered continued until Saturday.

Several minor cases of assault and battery were called and continued, and an unusually small delegation of offenders charged with drunkenness paid small fines or were placed on probation.

Vatican Represented

The Vatican is represented officially at Paris for the first time since the peace conference began work. Monsignor Corbelli, papal under secretary of state, being in the city to discuss with entente chiefs the status of Catholic missions in lands affected by the deliberations of the conference. It is improbable that he will be officially received by the conference because of the clause in the treaty of London between Great Britain, France and Italy which barred the Vatican from participation in discussions regarding questions connected with the war.

AGREEMENT WITH ITALY REACHED

PARIS, May 29.—A settlement of the Adriatic question is now a certainty as a result of negotiations yesterday. It is stated, in high quarters. Under this settlement, Plume becomes an independent city.

AUSTRIAN TREATY NOT YET COMPLETED

PARIS, May 29.—When the peace conference met in plenary session this afternoon to hear the Austrian peace terms, it was announced that the treaty had not yet been completed. It was decided, therefore, to postpone the session until Saturday, when the completed treaty is expected to be ready.

It is reported that the presentation of the terms to the Austrian delegation has been postponed until Monday. It had been set for tomorrow noon.

Another reason for the postponement of the plenary session was a request from the smaller powers, especially the Balkan states, that they be allowed further time to consider the terms.

GERMAN COUNTER PROPOSALS DELIVERED

PARIS, May 29.—The counter proposals formulated by the German delegation at Versailles have been delivered to the French authorities for consideration by the Council of Four today. The German reply was received in installments. The first comprised 85 paragraphs.

The reply is written in German and bears the caption: "Observations of the German delegation on the conditions of peace."

SIX NURSES GRADUATE

Lowell General Hospital

Training School Graduated

Class of Nurses Yesterday

The Lowell General hospital training school graduated a class of six nurses with appropriate exercises yesterday afternoon. Three of the graduates are Lowell girls. Marion E. Colby, Mildred G. Fay and Helen J. Hoyt, while the other three are Florence H. Crimmins of Haverhill, Arabella H. O'Keefe of Lowell, and Anna S. Simpson of Manchester, N. S.

The exercises were held in one of the new hospital buildings.

Arthur G. Pollard, president of the board of trustees, presided. Following an orchestra selection and the invocation by Rev. Frederick W. Hamilton, D.D., Mr. Pollard introduced Mayor Perry D. Thompson as the first speaker. Mayor Thompson spoke of the devotion and loyalty of Lowell nurses through the serious times of influenza epidemics and said that he felt sure that the kindness and work of those in charge of the hospital prevented suffering and death in countless cases.

Frank Hanchett, chairman of the executive committee, explained why the new hospital building in which the graduation exercises were held, had not been opened for service. The chief reason, he said, is that the hospital has not had the working end in balance the needs and requirements of this particular building. War conditions prevented the carrying out of the plans to provide a modern kitchen, sleeping rooms and dining room. Mr. Hanchett called attention to the fact that during the war fully 60 per cent of the hospital staff went into the service. He highly complimented the head of the institution, Miss Bertha Allen, and her assistants.

Frederick W. Hamilton, D.D., L.L.D., a member of the state board of education, gave the principal address. He said in part:

"War was one great agency which promoted the profession of nursing. When the British and French went into the Crimea to fight the Russians, men had not learned that war is a serious business, but it is sure to occur sooner or later, and that it is necessary to prepare for it. Under the bad sanitary conditions practically every wound became infected immediately. The men went from unsanitary camps to unsanitary hospitals and promptly died. The London Times told the British people just what was happening there in the Crimea, and the first result was the going out of Florence Nightingale, taking with her a few women whom she trained on the spot, and teaching the men how to be sanitary, bringing to them the blessed gospel of cleanliness and sanitation. When she came back a fund was raised for the opening of a hospital training school in London."

"When came our Civil war, and the same experience was repeated here, 65 per cent of all the wounds proving fatal. Those two wars and the growing knowledge of the importance of after-care, gave impetus to the development of this profession."

"Then came another great element, science. Science calls to its aid, personality. Out of all this came a profession—a humble one, it is true, because the physician stands at the mountain top and gives orders to the nurse standing down in the valley. Yet almost any surgeon would say that he would be almost helpless but for the nurse. And so it has grown to be one of the most notable professions that the world knows today, a profession which calls for the exercise of skill, courage and tact. A profession which enables those who practice it, if they practice it with a conception of what they are doing, I know of no task that is not noble, if it is viewed in its largest sense. I do not know of any task that is noble if it is undertaken simply as a means of gain. The thing that is eating like a cancer into the social life today, is the materialistic view of life. I want to congratulate you on having a work whose larger and finer aspects are more obvious than they are in some other occupations."

Dr. G. Forrest Martin, acting president of the hospital staff, before beginning his address, called upon Dr. Frank E. Phillips, house physician and presented him a diploma to recognize his faithful service at the hospital during the past year and a half. In the course of his address Dr. Martin said:

"Some of our men were able to get across. Those who were not, wanted to. But when they joined the service they found out that it was not what they had been told. It was a hard service, he is equally deserving of credit. Maj. Bryant was in service on the Texas front before we were in this war at all, and nothing but an unfortunate sickness of his own prevented him from being one of the first to go across."

"Maj. Putsier went into the service as captain, was soon raised to be major, and was regimental surgeon with his men on the European front."

"Capt. Lambert was one of the early men in the X-ray ray, and afterwards on surgical cases."

"Capt. Jewett sacrificed his work and has been serving since last Nov."

SERVICE MEN HONORED

Ladies' Auxiliary of 101st
Regiment Banquets Co. M
Boys and Others

One of the pleasant features of the very enjoyable evening of good time and reunion the Ladies' Auxiliary of the 101st Regiment was able to afford the Company M boys and others at the banquet last evening was the tribute paid by former Mayor Walter Hopkins, of Newburyport, to the boys of the Lowell company who "guarded Newburyport from invasion" in the spring of 1917.

Said Mr. Hopkins last night when called upon by Toastmaster James O'Sullivan to make an address "In the spring of 1917 when our country had entered the war against Germany it occurred to me people at Newburyport that the bridge in our city across the Merrimack used by the Boston and Maine railroad, should have a military guard. We made such representation to the commanding officer at Boston in charge of such matters who happened at the time to have been the dear old Col. Logan. We reported that we believed this bridge should be guarded not only because it was a connecting link between Boston and the Portsmouth navy yard but because it was on the route between Boston and Canadian ports through which American troops were sent in to be sent on their way to the battlefields of Europe. Troops ticketed for Halifax would have to cross this bridge.

"You can imagine the surprise of we staid old Newburyporters when, on going to the station to welcome the bridge guard we had been informed would come to our city, we beheld 120 stalwart, stout-hearted soldier boys hustle down from the special cars with their equipment. We learned they were members of Co. M, a Lowell outfit. Well, my friends, we may be slow but we are hospitable in Newburyport and we hustled around and got those boys billeted for four weeks in the Y.M.C.A. and at the end of that time tenings was provided them and they camped on our beautiful common, Bartlett Mall, in the heart of our city.

"We were pleased with having your boys among us, Mr. Mayor. We found that we were entertaining not only soldiers of first quality, but gentlemen as well. We shall never forget the Lowell boys, those who were among us in the spring of 1917, those who gave their lives for us in France, nor those who by God's mercy survive and our own Newburyport boys joined Co. M.

"When it came time for them to be relieved from duty of guarding the bridge, we mustered the band of our city and 5000 of our citizens escorted Co. M to its train. We stood with bowed heads and tears in our eyes when your boys started away. I tell you honestly, my friends, we tried to bid them as affectionate a farewell as we did our own boys when they were called later. Some three weeks ago or so, it was the privilege and honor of Newburyport to welcome Co. M back again for a reception and we certainly turned out for them. I want to tell you that these Co. M boys honored me by coming in a body and calling on me at my home. I would rather have had this honor extended to me and am more proud of it, than I would be to be president of the United States. Newburyport loves the Co. M boys. In future years all one of those boys will have to do is to say, when he comes to our city, 'I was one of the Company M boys' and he will be made to feel right at home."

When ex-Mayor Hopkins was announced as the speaker the Co. M boys who occupied a table by themselves paid him the tribute of standing.

It was estimated that about 300 persons attended the dinner last evening, which was one of Caterer Leydon's best turkey spreads with all the accompanying fixings, food enough for everyone, and to spare. The program started with a welcome song sung by the mothers, sisters and sweethearts, and divine blessing was invoked by Rev. John P. Flynn, O.M.I., pastor of the Sacred Heart church. The address of welcome was made by Mrs. William H. Merritt, chairman of the 101st Auxiliary, and then she turned the meeting over to Toastmaster James O'Sullivan, who paid an eloquent tribute to the women of this auxiliary and the work they had accomplished for the boys.

Mayor Thompson was the first speaker of the evening and said that he brought extremely good news to the boys of Co. M and their friends which he knew they would be glad to hear, and it was that Lowell had jumped the barrier and made her $33,000 quota for the Salvation Army drive, "and then some," as the mayor smilingly added. The mayor was in his usual happy vein and said that he felt he ought to talk only a short time as he knew the boys were anxious to get at the dancing and he was as anxious as any of them.

Commissioner James B. Donnelly gave a choice program of songs, patriotic and humorous, and had the big audience right with him. Vocal music of an enjoyable nature was also given by Mrs. Nora Regan Longtin and James S. King. After the musical and speaking program was finished the soldiers and their friends were requested by Mr. O'Sullivan to adjourn to the balcony for a short time so that the floor could be cleared of its tables and made ready for the dancing.

The officers of the 101st Ladies' Auxiliary are: Mrs. William H. Merritt, chairman; Mrs. George B. Marshall, vice chairman; Miss Mollie O'Sullivan, secretary; Miss Mary Lang and Miss Nellie V. Donahue, treasurers, and Miss Anna L. Spillane, historian. The arrangements for last evening's delightful affair were in the hands of Miss Lillian Barton, Mrs. George B. Marshall, Mrs. John M. Donahue, Mrs. James J. Spillane and Miss Anna Spillane. The reception committee was composed of the mothers of the auxiliary.

Two unusual incidents of the banquet was the call made by Toastmaster O'Sullivan for all the persons present to remain standing two minutes as a tribute to the soldier dead of Lowell. Mr. O'Sullivan also took occasion to announce that the auxiliary had felt grateful to Congressman Rogers for a kindly service he had rendered one of the boys. It seems that a Lowell boy, Private Wayne, had leave from a Boston military hospital where he has been receiving treatment and his leave expired too soon for him to attend the banquet, much as he wished to. The auxiliary enlisted Mr. Rogers' aid and he wired a request to the hospital commander in Boston to have Private Wayne's leave extended, and it was done. Private Wayne was asked to stand up when this announcement was made and he received a fine reception.

Besides the members of Co. M, the banquet also had as guests men from the military police of the 101st, men from the 101st Engineers and train and from the 101st Headquarters Company. It was plain on the faces of all the soldier boys present they were certainly enjoying themselves, and it was equally plain to be seen that the women of the auxiliary were glad to be able to provide the good time.

Among the invited guests sitting at the head table were Commissioners Charles J. Morse and Dennis A. Murphy, Robert R. Thomas, Rev. N. W. Matthews of Gorham Street P.M. church, Rev. John P. Flynn, O.M.I., and Hon. Walter Hopkins of Newburyport.

BRITTON AND AHEARN IN TOWN

Fred Moore, matchmaker of the Crescent A. A. telephoned The Sun this afternoon that Jack Britton, welterweight champion and Young Ahearn, the Brooklyn "dancing master," who are scheduled to box here tomorrow night, arrived in town today. Ahearn reached Lowell this morning, while Britton and his manager came here just after the noon hour.

DEBECED FOR OBSERVANCE
City hall and Monument square are all debeced for the observance of Memorial day. The national colors have been tastefully arranged on the front of the building as well as at the Merrimack street entrance where the city council will review tomorrow's parade. The monuments in front of the municipal building have also been garbed in the national colors.

ASK GRAN'MA, SHE KNOWS!

Our grandmothers know that millions of people, children and adults, have worms, either in stomach or bowels. This trouble is just as frequent now as it ever was but people don't know it. Ask Gran'ma—she knows! A Roxbury, Mass., grandmother writes to Dr. J. F. True & Co., Auburn, Me., saying: "I have always used your Dr. True's Elixir for my children and they are all healthy and well today."

"I put great faith in your medicine and one of my children was dying. The doctor said she could not live until morning and I ran out to the drug store, got a bottle of True's Elixir, was so excited I gave her half of the bottle at once and at night I gave her the other half. I thought it's either kill or cure for the doctor says she is dying anyway, but she did not die. She went to sleep, the first sleep for a week, and the next morning she passed two worms, red in color, six inches long. The doctor came to see if she was dead but he ran out pretty quick as she was sitting in her chair eating a bowl of oatmeal and milk. That was twenty-four years ago and now she has a baby girl of her own, seven months old, who is also using the Elixir."

British Air Ministry Is Planning To Give Crew a Great Reception

BREST, May 28.—Seaplane NC-4 will probably start from Lisbon tomorrow, weather permitting, as Lieut. Commander A. C. Read wishes to reach England on Memorial day, according to a wireless message picked up here by the George Washington from the Rochester, which is lying in the roads at Lisbon.

Washington Without News
WASHINGTON, May 28.—Further than the brief message received last night from Lieut. Commander Read, commander of the craft, the navy department early today still was without information concerning resumption of the transatlantic flight by the NC-4. That message, filed at 9:10 p. m., Lisbon time, stated: "NC-4 will not start tomorrow," but gave no reason for the delay. As previous reports had indicated, the machine and its personnel were in fit condition for continuing the flight, the assumption was that weather conditions unfavorable to a start had developed.

To Honor Americans
PLYMOUTH, England, May 28.—Adverse weather conditions at Lisbon caused the postponement last night of the start of the NC-4 for England, according to word received here. The torpedo boat Steadon which was given a position in the English channel along the route which the NC-4 is expected to follow, has gone to Brest, taking spare parts for the seaplane which may be used in case of a mishap.

The British air ministry is planning to give the NC-4 crew a great reception. Three flying boats, in addition to two airplanes, will go out to escort the Americans to the royal air force mooring station in the Cattewater, the mouth of the Plym river.

The Americans will be guests of honor at the royal air force station, probably on the day after their arrival.

Gov. Coolidge Congratulates NC-4 Commander

BOSTON, May 28.—Gov. Coolidge yesterday cabled congratulations to Lieut. Commander Albert C. Read, who commanded the naval seaplane NC-4 on the transatlantic flight.

"The people of Massachusetts," the message said, "rejoice that you are one of her sons and congratulate you on being the first to fly across the Atlantic. You have increased the fame of your native commonwealth. Your skill and daring has again made America first."

"ALL PROUD OF YOU"

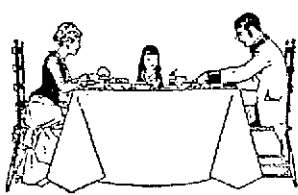

Pres. Wilson's Wire to Commander Read

PARIS, May 28.—President Wilson yesterday sent this message to Lieut. Commander Read of the NC-4:

"Please accept my heartfelt congratulations on the success of your flight and accept for yourself expression of my deep admiration. We are all heartily proud of you. You have won and deserve the distinction of adding still further to the laurels of our country."

Physicians Recommend Castoria

YOU know the real human doctors right around in your neighborhood: the doctors made of flesh and blood just like you: the doctors with souls and hearts: those men who are responding to your call in the dead of night as readily as in the broad daylight; they are ready to tell you the good that Fletcher's Castoria has done, is doing and will do, from their experience and their love for children.

Fletcher's Castoria is nothing new. We are not asking you to try an experiment. We just want to impress upon you the importance of buying Fletcher's.

Your physician will tell you this, as he knows there are a number of imitations on the market, and he is particularly interested in the welfare of your baby.

Children Cry For Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy? why you must insist on Fletcher's? For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

IN 360 MILE FLIGHT

Capt. James Flies From Atlantic City to Boston For Globe Trophy

BOSTON, May 28.—At a speed of about 115 miles an hour, Capt. Mansell James of the British Royal Air Force flew yesterday in a Sopwith airplane from Atlantic City, N. J., to Boston for the Boston Globe aerial trophy and a cash prize of $1000.

The machine Capt. James flew is what is known as a "Camel"—one of the speediest machines built and the machine which downed the German Albatross in the war. This and the French Spad were the two fast machines with which the allies were able to gain air domination over the Germans, and this is the first time a Camel has been down in this country.

Not Strong Head Winds
The Camel, under normal conditions, is capable of 120 miles an hour, but Capt. James had strong head winds nearly all the way from Atlantic City to Boston—a distance of 350 miles—and this reduced his time to 115 miles an hour.

This is one of the fastest flights ever made in this country and will in all probability capture the Globe trophy and cash prize of $1000, as Melvin Hodgdon's flight last week from Boston to Atlantic City, over the same course, was made at a speed of about 90 miles an hour.

First Flight in America
A remarkable thing about this flight of Capt. James was that he had never flown in this country before and found his way by chart and compass to a field eight miles north of Boston. He went right straight to the field as if he had been flying the course all his life.

The only thing to guide him to that field was a flying machine that had been placed near the point where he was expected to land and of which he had been notified by telegraph early in the day.

And, curiously enough, so trained are the eyes of aviators for flying machines that he was able to see this machine—a mere speck on the field—when he was about four miles away and cash prize of $1000, as Melvin Hodgdon's flight last week from Boston to Atlantic City, over the same course, was made at a speed of about 90 miles an hour. Capt. James went 25 miles an hour faster than Hodgdon.

At a few minutes before 6 o'clock Capt. James re-entered his machine, tested the propeller and at exactly 6 o'clock left the ground for Mitchell Field, L. I., 240 miles away. But before he got away he gave the crowd that had gathered on the field a bad scare.

After climbing about 1000 feet he turned sharply and volplaned straight down at the crowd. For a moment it looked as if something had gone wrong. When about 50 feet above the crowd he swooped and nosed her up into the sky. But the way that crowd scattered was a caution. And no wonder, for it certainly looked as if that 1600-pound machine was going to smash right into the crowd and then into the ground.

MEMORIAL DAY

Tomorrow the city pauses in its bread-winning activities to honor Lowell men who fought in the wars that made America what she represents today. Although Memorial Day was originally instituted to commemorate the heroes of the Civil war and honor the survivors of that mighty conflict yet as other wars added to the list, the day is now availed of to honor alike the memory of all our heroes, whether of the Civil war, the Spanish-American war or the great World war.

If patriotism, valor and bravery needed advertising, what would advertise them best? Most assuredly nothing better than the fearless young men of the average American city rushing eagerly to military camps ready to take training in order to help conquer a wicked foe. And of such Lowell has been well in the vanguard.

Therefore, tomorrow let us pay due tribute not only to the memory of the fallen heroes who gave their lives for the flag; but also to the surviving veterans of our wars, first those grand old veterans of the Civil war now few in numbers, but more venerable because of their age; second, those of the Spanish-American war and lastly to the soldiers and sailors who offered their lives in the service of their country in the worst war of all history. In the war just ended, the service of our young heroes brought added glory to our nation and, therefore, with patriotic acclaim do we hail our veterans one and all, the old and the young, the men who saved this glorious Union of states and those who played such a heroic part in the recent battle for world freedom and democracy. To her veterans who defended her liberties in every hazard this nation owes a debt of gratitude it can never fully repay.

CAPITAL AND LABOR

The world is coming to realize that the van of progress is led by men of brains, men who can plan the next step forward. When they have done this, if they themselves have the capital to finance their undertaking, they use it; if not, they get others to furnish the capital in lieu of a fair return for their money.

The man who originated the idea could not put it in operation without capital, and hence capital is a prime essential in industry. Capital has its rights which must be respected; but they cannot be allowed to over-ride the rights of others. Take, for example, the establishment of a cotton mill on the banks of the Merrimack. Kirk Boot and Patrick Tracey Jackson were the pioneers who furnished the ideas, the plans and concept of the original enterprise.

Other men furnished the money to build the mills, to construct a dam across the river and a race-way to bring the water to the mill wheels. When the mill was fully equipped, the quest came for operatives to run the looms, the spinning frames and the other machines employed in the textile industry.

If the operatives could not be found, then the mills and equipment would be useless. Here comes the importance of labor; but it is equally plain that if the mills had not been built, the operatives would not be given employment. Thus the importance of capital is co-ordinate with that of labor.

Thus capital and labor are each vitally interested in the other and are mutually dependent upon each other. For this reason alone, the socialist plea that capital has no rights, that it represents the foot of labor is obviously unjust and absurd.

There can be no industrial peace where the rights of labor and capital are not duly recognized and protected, each in its special functions. The co-operation of capital and labor, therefore, is necessary to every kind of industrial progress. Where antagonism is fostered, both suffer and the community affected cannot prosper as it should. We have had an illustration of what this antagonism means in the recent Lawrence strike and in various other conflicts between employer and employee.

Lowell has been fortunate in escaping such troubles and the longer they are barred, the better for the city. It was with this principle of the co-operation of capital and labor in mind that President Wilson devoted a great part of his recent message to congress to the industrial situation. He believes that labor must soon have a greater voice in the direction of industry than in the past. That seems to be the only safe path to industrial peace. There should be some agency with legal authority to settle labor disputes and maintain cordial relations between labor and capital, upon whose friendly co-operation the prosperity of every community so vitally depends.

MAKE THEM WORK

There is no reason why the hobo should return to American life. He disappeared with the war by going to work. There is work for him today and there will be plenty more later on, for there is going to be a greater shortage of labor than the country ever knew before. But the panhandler is trying to come back to panhandling. He is in the streets of the cities and the towns. He is "riding the rattlers." He has his hand out for money or anything he can get without labor. In Camden, N. J., the mayor encountered three on his way to the city hall. When he got to his office he summoned the chief of police. They went out and rounded up the three and then the vagrants were put to work. For twelve hours they had to labor cleaning the city hall from cellar to cupola. They got their meals and a small amount of pay, but they had to work. When they had given to the city hall the best cleaning it ever had received, they were told to go. They crossed the Delaware in a hurry.

Any more that show up will be put to work cleaning public buildings. Since that day, Camden has had no street beggars.

Why is not this a good example for other cities to follow? If men are caught begging on the streets, run them in and send them not to clean out city hall, but to work on the city farm under Supt. Conley until they earn enough to give them a decent feed and pay their fare to the next city, although we don't wish such people on any city. As a rule they are shiftless and good for nothing. They never work except when compelled to. It is against their principles.

HOME BUILDING

It looks now as if the home building campaign will amount to something. Its aims are all good. In the first place, the building operations will help bring business back to normal conditions. These campaigns in other cities have awakened local pride and united civic ambition in a pull together spirit. The building movement makes a double appeal to local pride and personal interest.

There is little chance that the home-owner will engage in any unpatriotic movement. In this respect, the movement will help in building up a strong and patriotic citizenship.

There are in our city, thousands of foreigners who have money enough to build or purchase homes; but they know nothing of how to go about the business of building. Neither do they realize that they can get credit from the local banks or building associations.

The board of trade has set the ball a rolling in this movement, and the people of the city should co-operate in every way possible. Where rents are very high, the amounts paid out monthly would go far towards paying for a home. It is the aim of the campaign to make the terms so easy that even laborers who earn good wages can purchase their own homes.

Whether from the business or patriotic standpoint, this movement is one that should be encouraged. It will help the people and help the city.

Building campaigns are spreading all over the country and well they may, since it is estimated that from 500,000 to 1,000,000 tenements are urgently needed in the United States. It is safe to say that fully 500 are needed in Lowell.

LITHUANIAN REPUBLIC

The republic of Lithuania is appealing for recognition, having been freed from Russian rule and having bravely defended her own rights and liberties against Bolshevism after having resolutely fought against the Prussians. After the peace treaty shall have been signed and the status of every nation shall have been properly established, there will be no reason whatever why the United States should not promptly recognize the republic of Lithuania. The people are among the oldest races of Europe, belonging to the Indo-European family, with a rich and copious language derived from the Sanskrit and, by some linguists, held to be the key to that language. The country, when invaded, first by the Germans and then by the Russians, bravely resisted the invaders, and today it stands as a bulwark against the onward march of Bolshevism.

Every small nation that has the courage to resist superior force in fighting for its liberties, should be freely recognized. There are many Lithuanians in the United States and many in this city who have aided the movement for the independence of their motherland. As a rule they are industrious and law-abiding people who, like the Irish and the Poles, would be thrilled with national pride at seeing the hand of their ancestors liberated after ages of oppression.

LAWRENCE CAR STRIKE

It is to be regretted that Lawrence has had another strike on its hands, in this case a suspension of its street car service. It appears that the car men declared a strike in protest against the discharge of a motorman for alleged intoxication while in charge of a car. The situation, if we are correctly informed, is rather peculiar. It seems that the man who has been discharged had not been on duty, but volunteered to take a car to the barn as an accommodation for another motorman. He was reported as intoxicated and, therefore, discharged. The claim of the union now seems to be that if any man should be discharged, it ought to be the man who turned over his car to another instead of taking it to the barn himself. The matter was far too insignificant to raise so much trouble over, and should have been settled without causing the city any inconvenience or notoriety. Lawrence has already had too much advertising through labor strikes.

WE KEEP THE SHIPS

Fortunately, President Wilson has secured the consent of the allied powers represented in the peace congress to hold the German ships already in our possession. Had they been handed over to some other power, the American people would have been heard in a vigorous protest. We have asked no indemnity or reparation for our losses in the war, and it would indeed indicate a rather small spirit if not downright jealousy on the part of other powers, if the United States had been obliged to hand over the German ships found interned in our ports after we entered the war.

The United States public health service at Washington, conducted under the direction of the surgeon general, comes out with a tabulated statement showing the extent to which venereal diseases existed among the draftees of the second million men called to the colors. The general average is 5.4 per cent. The city of Lowell stands 16th in the list with a percentage of 3.05. Lawrence stands 33d with a percentage of 4.78. The city of Cambridge has the distinction of standing first on the list of cities of 100,000 or over with a percentage of 2.03. Savannah, Georgia, shows the highest percentage with 21.45 men out of every 100 affected with some form of venereal disease. In view of these facts, it is not strange that the war department is appealing to the press of the country to make known the facts revealed by the physical examination of the draftees when brought to camp.

Yes, the little Danish tramp steamer Marie, having accidentally carved a niche in the aeronautic hall of fame for herself by picking up Hawker and Grieve, there would seem to be every reason why her owners should condescend to fit her up with wireless. She and her skipper are certainly covered with glory, for human life was risked to pick up the two passengers who dropped from the air.

Must it not mean a great deal in the start of a young West Point cadet that government examiners have certified him to be 100 per cent physically perfect and 100 per cent mentally perfect? George A. Saxton, Jr., a Greater Boston youth, selected by Congressman Gallivan to take the competitive exams for West Point, has thus been certified.

Damn it all, it has got so you can hardly do a blamed thing you want to down in the city of Morelia, Mexico, and it looks as though the mayor was trying to put on airs too. He has just issued a public proclamation to which is attached a stringent penalty for its infraction, to the effect that all men must wear pants in public!

Hemle's assertion that he won't sign keeps up the record of his usual bawling average in voracity.

Scientists tell us that when a grasshopper hops he has no idea where he is going to light. It may be in a lake or fire, under a heel or in the pansy bed. He never knows until he gets there. The grasshopper has no brain and no room for one. Do you hop?

Harry Robbins of Philadelphia wanted to mold a French "75" shell into a dainty souvenir, and placed it in a pan of boiling water. Doctors say Harry's condition is serious, while contractors are bidding on repairs to the house.

Stopping Otto Auto, the speed demon, is getting us dippy. Every day somebody thinks up a way to head him off and Otto autoes on, and on. Honestly, folks, the only person who can stop Otto autoing is John D. Rockefeller. Hoot Mon writes in to suggest that all John D. would have to do would be to keep on boosting gasoline prices.

Ham and Eggs

John Henry Dickson of Uniontown, Pa., has invented a chicken feed formula, which he says will produce multiple yolk eggs. He found a triple-yolked egg in the nest of his favorite hen, and hopes by next year to have achieved the four-yolk egg. And then along will come another chicken breeder and develop an egg which will contain egg and a slice of ham or bacon in the same shell.

Vacation Thinking Time

The time is a little green for vacations. But the season is quite ripe for darning up vacation schedules. It takes three months to get set for a vacation. And the same length of time to get over one. At the present stanza, paying the mind with plans, on the firm's time, on how to spend the coming vacation is the popular cookie. With each year there are two important sets of weeks. Two weeks' notice, and two weeks' vacation. The thought of one keeps you on the hop at work, and the other works on you like hop. Can't work when there's a half month in vacation coming, to think about. Can't even think when it's over. But a vacation is two weeks' toll!

The Latest Pest

Now that airplanes are a regular habit on the daily menu, and no sky is complete without at least one, a new pest elbows his entrance in to swell the list of flat tires. He's the dud who punctures any conversation on aerial wagons with, "I had a chance to go up in an airplane once." Every time an airpanda is spotted carving the ozone, that murmur of humk is eased off on some innocent bystander. "I had a chance to go up in an airplane"

A GREAT CHANGE ENTERS INTO LIFE OF STOREKEEPER

A certain unassuming gentleman in this city who happens to be a prominent merchant and who up to a few weeks ago had become a recluse because of his physical condition tells this remarkable and most interesting tale: "For a number of years," he said, "I have been so closely confined to my business working zealously to make my store representative in every respect that I neglected my health. My face became drawn and haggard and my disposition seemed to urge people to evade me. It was then that I began to despise my own company."

My bookkeeper one day suggested that I needed a rest and that my nerves required attention. She told me that her father had taken Phosphated Iron when in my condition. 'Look at him now,' she said. 'He works ten hours a day and is the happiest man in the world!'

"All this happened less than a month ago. I followed the advice and look at me now. Back in the harness with a smile all the while. I am feeling more fit than ever. When I see a tired looking face the name of Phosphated Iron immediately comes in my mind. I am convinced that it is converting many a worn out body into a life rich in thought, ambition and enthusiasm."

once." The old oil! That line looks like it's gonna step high with the good old bla of, "One of my ancestors came over on the Mayflower." At that rate for capacity, the Mayflower would make some transport these days. That "had-a-chance-to-go-up-in-an-airplane" chirp, makes as much impression on the other guy as the fish that "got away!"

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

This is the story of the trials and tribulations of the Bay State "starter" at Merrimack square, who answers more darn fool questions in one day than our city editor, which is certainly going some. And just like the city editor, he is expected to know everything, from the name of Mrs. Jones' newest baby up in the Highlands to who started the dog fight in Belvidere this morning.

This story will not attempt to tell all the questions that this much abused employe of Bill Bay State has to answer in a day. That would take at least a whole volume. Neither will it attempt to tell those that he answered after he came back from his noon day lunch. But here are just a few he was called upon to answer this forenoon:

"If I take an express train at 8:41 going north what time will I arrive at Plymouth, N. H.?" Mr. Starter? "Inquired a lady with a traveling bag in her hand. The starter went inside and provided her with a timetable."

"Mr. Starter," inquired the sweet young thing with a lisp, "I just mailed a letter to Chicago about two hours ago. When will I get an answer?"

"What is the best place in Lowell to get a drink?" inquired Hobo Johnny, who had just arrived via the fast freight route. "Outside," came back the starter.

"Where is the best show in town?" Mrs. Newlywed wanted to know. "There are many good shows in town, Madam," answered the official, and he enumerated some of the Spindie City's playhouses. "Oh, I've been to all of them. Haven't they got any new theatres in town since the last time I came here?" "No," "Well, well, that's too bad. Come on, John dear, we'll go to the movies I guess."

Just then the starter was called inside the office to answer the telephone. "Mr. Starter, my husband is coming home an hour early today and the clock has stopped. Won't you tell me the correct time so I won't have to make him wait for his supper?" His duty done and hubby's supper provided for, the starter found himself confronted by an enraged gentleman who bellowed: "Didn't you tell me that you would let me know when the Nashua car went out?" And the starter realized with his consternation that while he had been inside in the interest of some man's supper, the New Hampshire "boat" had gone. (Yes, he got away with his life, but it was a narrow escape.)

"I believe you know my wife, Mr. Starter," said the tall and stately business man. "Now, if she asks you to-day if you've seen me you say that you have not. I'm supposed to be out."

of town. By the way, Mr. Starter, have a cigar."

"Where can I get a job?" asks a returned doughboy, still limping from getting in the way of some German shrapnel. "Better try the United States bureau for returning soldiers and sailors on Merrimack street, buddy," says the starter. "Ask for Connie Cronin—he'll fix you up." "Thanks, old pal," and the boy from France limps away.

In his place is a little old lady. "Are you the starter?" "Yes, ma'am." "Well, did you know a Mrs. Smith who lived in the Highlands about 10 years ago? I'm third cousin of hers and I came all the way down from Portland to pay her a visit." She was escorted to the waiting room, and the starter, with the aid of two city directories, finally found the missing Mrs. Smith.

A man with a dog chain in his hand sauntered leisurely over to the starter. "Where's the dog that should be attached to the other end?" inquired the official. "I lost him this morning," he was told. "He was a good dog, too. Only a little brown mongrel, but he was great pals. I tell you, now, if you see any brown mongrel dog hanging around here, and he answers to the name of Napoleon, you take him inside and telephone to me. I'll come down after him."

A man and a woman expecting friends from Derry, N. H.: "Yes, Mr. Starter, they wrote us they'd start early this morning. Do you think we're in time or have we missed them?"

A lady with a baby carriage—she wants to buy William a new pair of pajamas for his birthday. "Oh, Mr. Starter, will you mind snookums while I go over to Chalfoux's?" "Sorry, Madam, but I'm not running a nursery now," explained the starter. "Fresh thing," murmurs the woman.

"I notice there are lots of dogs hanging around the square," said the smooth appearing man with the cross-eyes. "Say, what about you, picking up one of these strays now and then and taking them inside. I would dispose of them for you in Boston at a good profit and we'll split 50-50." "I'm not a dog catcher, I'm a starter," indignantly replied Bill Bay State's representative.

A boy and a girl—he's 19 and she's just old enough to know better. "Where's the best restaurant in town?" asks the young man in a loud, manly tone. Before the starter can reply the boy calls the girl's attention to something across the street and then hurriedly and in a whisper, "I mean, where we can get a meal real reasonable?"

"Where's the handiest river?" inquired an excited, nervous appearing individual. "Caual, right across the corner," he was told. "You cold blooded wretch, I don't want to commit suicide. I'm just in search of some pretty scenery."

Old lady, very deaf: "Mr. Starter, he you the town crier?" "No, ma'am, I'm only the starter." "Goodness me, down to him in Newburyport we used to have a town crier and he told us everything we wanted to know."

"Are the stores open in Nashua this afternoon, Mr. Starter?"

"I say, starter, will this car take me by Main street in Lynn? I want to get off near Mrs. Brown's."

"Starter, I have a complaint to make. I think it's positively shameful the way some motormen act. Why, do you know, the other day I was putting on my hat to go down to the show and I told Nellie—that's my little girl, you know—to run out and tell the motorman that I'd be right out and for him to wait for me. And he went right along. No wonder the company isn't making any money when they treat folks that way."

"Mr. Starter, I'm going to Salem and I want you to call up the Lawrence office and tell them to hold the Salem car in the square there until we get there." "Yes, ma'am," says the starter. With that the starter closed for the day.

the procession but this year they will be in the foreground.

With the G.A.R. will be the Spanish-American war veterans and the soldier and sailor veterans of the world war. The latter will be led by Lieut. Schuyler R. Walter and will make up a separate division.

The parade will start from the South common at 1 p. m. and will move over the usual route: Thorndike street to Middlesex, to Central, to Merrimack, to Moody and Monument square, where a volley will be fired in honor of the dead and then the parade will continue through Cabot street to Merrimack. It will be reviewed at city hall by members of the city government and then will be dismissed at Dutton street.

Heading the entire procession will be a large out-turning of the police department and every member who is not on duty is expected to take part. Chief Marshal Dudley L. Page and his staff will be next in line, followed by the Sons of Veterans escorting the three posts of the G.A.R.

The G.A.R. will have two floats in the parade and the Daughters of Veterans one. Following these features will come the Spanish war veterans and the world war veterans. Next will be various military, semi-military and social organizations. The parade should be one of the longest Memorial day affairs ever held here.

PHOTOGRAPH OF AN AMERICAN "GARDEN OF THE BRAVE" IN FRANCE. THIS IS ONE OF THE CEMETERIES OVER THERE WHERE REST THE MORTAL REMAINS OF BOYS WHO FOUGHT OUR BATTLES

"THE GARDEN OF THE BRAVE"

BY SIR JOHN FOSTER PRAZER

I know that in the United States, just as in Great Britain, thoughts often travel to the torn and tortured battlefields where the poppies bloom in summer time above the dead. I know that many generous Americans are willing to provide money to restore the broken villages and lift up again the prostrate towns. In France it is sometimes thought it would be better if over that sad region a noble, silent forest grew as a sentinel. But there comes to me a vision of that fearful land becoming bright as a beautiful garden—the garden of the brave.

In my vision I see miles and miles radiant with the lovely fleur de lys nodding above the plains where over a million brave Frenchmen are taking their long but glorious rest. I see the blooms of Belgium and Italy, and oh! I see great bunches of American golden rod marking the spot where your own brave lads do sleep away from home.

In my garden of the brave there is a mighty avenue, all gold and crimson, maple trees making splendid sentinels above the boys who came from Canada. And I find sheaves of wheat so that we shall know what gallant Australia did. Yonder is a stretch of green, vivid, soft, all of shamrock, providing a coverlet over the Irishmen who played their true part. Oh, and in my garden I see roses, the roses of Lancaster and York, so that we may bow our heads where over 50,000 young Englishmen sleep side by side.

In my garden of the brave I see masses of purple heather; and standing amid it I hear the sound of the pipes, for the pipes are ever to be heard amongst the heather which cloaks the long slumber of my own fighting Highland men. That is the vision I often behold. It can never be real and yet I would not shut it out.

The Florentine sang: "Sweet and fit it is to die for one's country." But may I say that sweetest still and far more fit it is to live for one's country. And you Americans and we British will be best living for our countries if we make our lives worthy of the high opportunities which are before us today, making peace secure and abiding and tying the knot of friendship between our two great peoples, which, please God, shall not be loosened until the very day of judgment.

St. Louis at Detroit (two games).

The Call-em

Almost simultaneously with his appearance as a pinch hitter for Dana Fillingim on Tuesday and his delivery of a smacking double, came the announcement in the press box that Joe Kelly had been sold to Toledo of the American association. Many fans are hoping that Joe's period of pasturing in the junior league will be short-lived, but at any rate he made his exit about as impressive as possible and passed out still fighting.

Insult to Injury

Just when Barrow is all down the dumps and his team is skidding toward the sub-cellar with all possible speed, Larry Gardner, a cast-off, rides rough shod over the Sox pitchers in the three-game series just closed and comes out with an average of .667. Speaker heaves out against his former cronies with a mark of .333, and what's more with a heartbreaker on defense.

What's the Idea

What's the big idea of the Crescent club here and the Unity in Lawrence running in opposition to each other? Perhaps it is an intentional but it has happened before and it doesn't do either club any good financially, and we suppose that is the golden motive for existing. When slow do conflict, as they do this Friday night, or worse, neither management is going to call on his hit just to suit the other fellow, but a little foresight would be commendable and ought to appeal to both managers, Moore and Crilly.

A Big Deal

Rumor has it that an important deal is being made between the Boston and Philadelphia American league clubs and the names mentioned in the transfer are Larry Roth and Alievoy. Boston opens a series in Philadelphia today and something may transpire before the end of the week. It is said that the root of the discussion in the Red Sox camp is divided opinion as to whether Larry or Alievoy ought to be traded and stick for the champions. Some of the players favor Dave because of his record last year, while others favor Jack because of his present length of experience. What a strange twist of fate it would be if Larry should go to the team which cast him off at the close of the 1914 season after the Braves had made a clean sweep of the world series with the Athletics. Jack broke up his wonderful combination of Baker, Barry, Collins and McInnis and has never regained his lost prestige. Roth is the outfielder Mack got from Cleveland in the Larry Gardner trade and Alievoy is a catcher.

Help in Sight

Baker, an infielder from the Reading international league team, is on his way to Lowell. He comes well recommended and may fill a yawning hole.

BRITTON AND AHEARN HERE TOMORROW

Jack Britton, world's welterweight champion, and Young "Jake" Ahearn, famous Brooklyn "dancing master," will meet in the main bout of 12 rounds at the Crescent A. A. tomorrow night. Matchmaker Moore announced today that both men will positively appear and that he has received word that both men are in great condition for the bout. This bout is the point to the largest crowd of the season turning out to see the title-holder and the clever dancing master in action.

Britton since winning the title from Ted Lewis has been in demand throughout the country, and while Boston and other clubs tried to land him, Lowell will be the first New England city to see him perform since he annexed the title.

"We are presenting a world's champion, not a Merrimack Valley, and a title holder," said Mr. Moore today, "and he is going to continue to get the best men in the country here, if the members so desire."

Young Drew of Lawrence and Frankie Walsh of Lowell will meet in the semi-final and in the preliminary Billy Taylor of Camp Devens will tackle Jimmy Goulette of Lawrence and Young Conway of Derry, N. H., will go after Jack Fallon of Lawrence.

The Boston battery was Winn and Henry.

CHICAGO, May 28.—Counsel for Mordecai Brown, formerly a pitcher for the Chicago Nationals and later manager of the St. Louis Federal league club, yesterday had dismissed his suit for salary at the rate of $1200 a month for a year and a half on his unexpected contract with the St. Louis club. The suit was filed in October, 1917.

A GREAT FINISH

Lowell Pulls Lost Game Out of Fire Against Haverhill

Mike Hayden's Lowell team looked absolutely outclassed for eight innings against Haverhill at Spaulding park yesterday, but pulled a last game out of the discard in the last frame, knocking Verre from the box and batting over four runs before a man was retired. Burkett's team was sent home with the stigma of having yet to win a game this year.

The only regret expressed by the fans present was that Burkett was not on hand to see the finish. He would have changed from hot to cold and back again, with giving away to disgust. It was one of those thunderbolt variances which gives the old game its magnetism and was a finale worthy of a crowd of 1000. As it was, only a handful saw the fun.

The entire story is told in the last inning. Going into the ninth, three runs behind, Lowell looked tough for the home club. Nobody stirred when Cline, first up, singled to right, but the reviving spirits did flare up appreciably when Hayden drove a hit to left. Cline pulling up at second. Verre, the Haverhill pitcher, was wavering, but willingly assured his teammates that he would pull through. His first pitch to Sullivan was wild and both runners advanced a base. Sully then lifted a high fly to Duff in centre and the usually reliable fielder let it drop. Cline scored, Henry reached third and Sullivan second. Scanlon hit hard to Gonzalez who tried to nip Cline at the plate but failed. Hayden, hitting for Davis, singled to right on the first ball pitched, scoring Sullivan and sending Scanlon to third. Hayden stole. Verre was yanked and Comeau replaced him. McManus walked. Devon, with the winning run on third base, drove a sharp grounder past second base and the old ball game was over.

BETWEEN THE INNINGS

Sullivan, the Billerica boy who is a number of Hayden's catching staff, had his first chance yesterday, and handled himself creditably. His head was up when he threw the ball to third base after Hirst had scored, claiming the runner had not touched the bag. The play was allowed by Umpire O'Day.

Hirst kicked himself out of the park on the play. O'Day taking on three bases before the ejection process. As the ump slapped on the third base, a bleacher fan yelled: "There goes his week's pay."

Clark saved Davis an error in the seventh when he went up in the air to pull down his throw on the former's play on Gonzalez.

Davis, who does not claim to be an infielder, looked bad at shortstop in the second inning. Faulkner's fly dropped right behind him for a single.

because he let Henry try for it. Some one should have called the play.

Owner Dick Conway said today that the Lowell club has its eye on several players of class to strengthen the team. It is his intention to give the city a good brand of ball.

FITCHBURG 7, LAWRENCE 0
FITCHBURG, May 28.—Pitcher J. Sullivan yesterday held Lawrence to one hit, and Fitchburg won easily, 7 to 0. The hitting of Hilton featured. The score: Fitchburg, 7; Lawrence, 0. Batteries: J. Sullivan and Quinn; Downing and Foye.

LEWISTON 6, PORTLAND 5
PORTLAND, May 28.—Lewiston defeated Portland yesterday, 6 to 5. In 11 innings. Lewiston's victory hung on a peculiar situation in the ninth. Pike, who had retired from the game in the previous inning, went in to bat. One strike had been called on him when Empire Kilmer called him out of the game. The score: Lewiston, 6; Portland, 5. Batteries: Quinn and Kane, Cannon; J. Murphy, McLaughlin and Moordfield.

BIG WRESTLING BOUT

Champion Lewis and Mort Henderson To Meet at Crescent Rink

One of the most important wrestling matches ever arranged for this city is scheduled to be pulled off at the Crescent rink tonight, when Strangler Lewis, who but recently won the title from Zbyszko, will meet Mort Henderson, the original masked marvel, in a match to a finish, best two out of three falls, only pin falls to count, with the struggle held barehanded.

Lewis is a remarkable man, and obtained his cognomen, after he had perfected the famous strangle hold. He became proficient in the head hold, after constant practice with a dummy.

The score: Lewis, 1; Portland, 5. Batteries: Quinn and Kane, Cannon; J. Murphy, McLaughlin and Moordfield.

Protest Repeal of Daylight Saving Law

NEW YORK, May 29.—Marcus M. Marks, president of the National Daylight association, today sent appeals to chambers of commerce throughout the nation to join in a protest against repeal of the daylight saving law. A rider on the agricultural bill calls for its repeal.

"The repeal of the daylight saving law without giving the representatives of daylight saving a hearing, will be pernicious class legislation," he said.

Calgary R.R. Workers To Strike

Before sailing, General Bailey was decorated with the French war cross with palm, and made an officer of the Legion of Honor.

The steamer President Grant left here last evening for Boston, with 6000 men and officers of the service of supply.

American troops to the number of 160,000 were repatriated through Brest during May.

Yanks on Vologda Front To Sail Home

ARCHANGEL, Tuesday, May 27. (By the Associated Press.)—The first American unit to sail for home will be a battalion which has held the Vologda railway front. The new American infantry and engineer detachments still in the front-line positions are fighting in continuous daylight. There is no midnight sun, but for two or three hours after 11 o'clock at night, there is a hazy twilight over northern Russia.

The inhabitants of villages along the Tersi coast, which is the land-locked southern shore of the Kola peninsula, have been relieved from starvation by an American Red Cross ship, which has returned here after penetrating the ice floes. This ship, which is commanded by Captain J. B. Clewell of Bellingham, Wash., was the first craft to visit the villages since the American Red Cross ship was there last autumn.

Large crowds, including American and Russian soldiers, witnessed a parade today of the British relief force, which arrived here yesterday. All the British soldiers are picked men and created a fine impression. They were agreeably disappointed to find, instead of Arctic conditions, warm bright sunshine and green grass.

Severe Stomach Pains Corrected Says Maine Man

Found No Relief From Indigestion Until He Tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

A pale skin means a pale stomach. When your face becomes sallow it is a warning that the whole system is pale and inefficient. Good, rich blood means a good color. When the blood is weak the color not only disappears but the stomach and nerves revolt, causing pain and distress. The victim becomes exhausted easily and finds sleep difficult, his heart palpitates and he is frequently subject to headaches and dizzy spells. When the blood is built up new life and energy are carried to every part of the body, the nerves are strengthened, the processes of digestion become natural and the color returns.

Mr. S. A. Regan, of No. 25 Oxford street, Portland, Me., found the tonic to build up his weakened system and he is glad to recommend the remedy to others.

"For more than thirty years I had suffered from stomach trouble," says Mr. Regan. "It was caused, originally, I believe, by a severe strain received when I was jammed against a building by a horse. I had taken many remedies but without benefit and there were almost constant pains in my stomach. Food distressed me, causing gas. I was very weak and completely run down, my skin was sallow and I couldn't sleep well."

"A friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me and I procured a box. I could see a decided improvement in my condition after a few days' treatment and continued taking the remedy for months until I had completely recovered. As my appetite improved I gained strength and the pains entirely disappeared. I eat with pleasure now and no longer have to diet. I owe my present good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and have recommended the remedy to my friends."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., on receipt of price, 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50. Write for free booklet on nervous disorders and diet.—Adv.

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION ELECTS OFFICERS

Polls were opened all day yesterday at the Lowell Typographical union, the occasion being the annual election of officers. The choice of two delegates to the New England Typographical convention at New Haven, Conn., and the voting on two propositions regarding the 11-hour week in book and job offices throughout the country.

Secretary Fred A. Speed was chosen to represent the newspaper workers at the convention, while President N. W. Matthews, Jr., was elected to represent the book and job offices. BILLY ROCHE BACK FROM OVERSEAS

Billy Roche, noted the world over as one of the most competent referees who ever stepped into a ring to judge a sparring contest or finish fight, has returned from overseas where, for more than six months, he served as a Knickerbocker of Columbus secretary.

While abroad Roche refereed many contests in France, was a big figure in the king's boxing tournament, London, and for three months refereed six nights each week at contests staged for the army of occupation in Germany.

Roche says the dourboy is the best and most enthusiastic fighting fan in the world. He is for everybody getting a fair square deal and never "squawks" over a decision—no matter whether his favorite wins or loses.

Just now, Roche says, the American soldier is all wrapped up in baseball and, thanks to the Knickerbocker of Columbus, has enough equipment at hand so he may indulge in the sport any time he feels so inclined.

Roche will be heard from in the very near future with a plan to internationalize the sport of boxing and will visit Washington very soon to advocate certain legislation that would, he says, pave the way for the realization of his plans in that direction.

Y.M.C.A. GAMES ON COMMON TOMORROW

About 40 entries have been received for the open amateur track and field meet to be held tomorrow morning on the South common under Y.M.C.A. auspices. The games are scheduled to start at 9 o'clock with trial heats of the century dash as the opening number. The best athletes in the city are entered including several from the high school, Y.M.C.A. and Greek societies. The program includes: 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, quarter mile, half mile, mile, relay race, pole vault, discus throw, running high jump, 12-pound shot put and a special event, the Greek 15-pound stone throw. Business men of the city have offered suitable cups for the place winners. Mayor Perry D. Thompson will be the referee.

BIG ENTRY LIST FOR BUNTING GAMES

Nearly 75 names have been received for entry in the track and field meet to be held under the auspices of the Bunting club at Bunting park Saturday afternoon. Practically all of the better know athletic clubs of the state are sending first class representatives. The 10-mile special event will be a feature of the program. Jimmy and Tom Henigan, the plugging brothers from Dorchester are entered as well as another Henigan, first name Jimmy, who does not claim any relationship to the other two, but does claim as good a track reputation.

The athletic committee met last night and the handicaps given by Hugh McGrath of the B.A.A. were announced. Several scratch men are in the list. A large crowd is expected and the club will conduct the meet along the most efficient and expeditious lines.

HARVARD DECLINES TO MEET COMBINATION YALE LIGHT ON TRADES RIVER

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 29.—Harvard has declined to meet a combination Yale eight on the Thames river next month, and the idea of Coach Maibach, who has been abandoned. In the Yale squad, however, there will be four varsity and four freshmen substitutes who will practice as an eight. They will be regularly coached and can be used in the selected crews at a moment's notice.

Coach Abbott says that the Yale varsity crew has been practically selected. It rowed 10 miles yesterday and the combination worked well. Its improvement has been marked the past few days. The freshman eight for the American Henley in a workout yesterday was said by Coach Abbott to have shown a more powerful drive and smoother recovery than in any previous row. It's time for the Henley distance was 6:31.

LEAGUE IS AGENT NOT OUR MASTER

Logical and Practical Organism Entirely Consistent With Constitution

Sen. Robinson Charges Sen. Lodge With "Ridiculous Inconsistency"

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The League of Nations was supported as a logical and practical organism, entirely consistent with the American constitution, by Senator Robinson, democrat, of Arkansas, in a speech yesterday in the senate. Opponents of the league, he said, were making a campaign of misrepresentation, setting up flimsy objections.

"The objection that the League of Nations treaty creates a super-government is without foundation," he said. "It can take no action in any important controversy without the consent of the United States. Its powers are advisory. By the treaty it becomes the common agent of the signatory powers to promote international cooperation and peace. It is our agent, not our master."

"A treaty is not unconstitutional merely because it contains agreements, the execution of which requires the exercise of powers vested by the constitution exclusively in the executive and legislative branches of the government. To declare that no treaty can be made which requires legislative action to execute it, or which pledges the government to do something exclusively within the power of the executive, would nullify a large majority of the treaties heretofore entered into by the United States and render the government powerless to maintain foreign relations."

"The United States has already entered into many treaties pledging itself not to engage in war against certain foreign nations until the expiration of a definite period and it has also agreed by treaty to settle many disputes by arbitration. Notwithstanding such agreements, congress still has the power to declare war."

"With respect to the allegation that the mandatory provision is in conflict with the constitution, the only question of a constitutional nature arising is whether the United States is forbidden to govern or assist in the government of other countries. There is no question under the revised draft of compelling the United States to act as a mandatory. The language clearly and expressly makes it optional."

Senator Robinson charged Senator Lodge with "ridiculous inconsistency," and read the following portion of a speech purporting to have been made by Mr. Lodge in an address to a peace society meeting here in May, 1916:

"The limit of voluntary arbitration has, I think, been reached. I think the next step is that which this league proposes and that is to put force behind international peace. We may not solve it in that way, but if we cannot solve it in that way, it can be solved in no other. I do not believe that when Washington warned us against entangling alliances, he meant for one moment that we should not join with a method could be found to diminish other civilized nations of the world war and encourage peace."

WALSH VERY POPULAR IN THE CAPITAL

(Special to The Sun)
Senator Walsh is one of the most sought for men in the capital for making addresses before clubs and other organizations. This week he fills three such engagements all of note. He was the principal speaker at the dinner of the credit men's section of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association Monday night at the St. Mark's cafe. Mr. Walsh was introduced by John W. Clarke, formerly of Massachusetts, who gave a short sketch of the senator's career and how he came to Washington, the first democrat in three generations.

Senator Walsh spoke about the relation which he predicted would come out of the war between the government, the employer and the employee. He called it a partnership, in which equal responsibility, proportionate division of profit and equal interest in the welfare of the other partners rested upon each.

Senator Walsh defined happiness and prosperity for the employee to be having a position, becoming master of that position and doing the work well each day. He declared this must be the mental and moral attitude of the employee. The proper attitude of the employer should be to divide with his workers a rightful part of the profits and provide proper working conditions. The government should see to it that neither violated the right and privilege of the other.

FEAST OF THE ASCENSION

Today was the feast of the ascension or the observance of the ascent of Christ into heaven, and was appropriately recognized by the local Catholic churches as a holy day of obligation. Masses were said at the usual holy day hours and there were many communicants at the early masses. The usual May devotions will be held this evening.

CITY-WIDE HUNT FOR WASTE AND SCRAP

Inspired by the knowledge that they are helping the Lowell Guild to spread its baby welfare work, Lowell people seem determined not to leave one scrap of waste undiscovered in their homes. Through the length and breadth of the city women are buzzing with waste campaign talk, and much amazement is being expressed over the amount of old rags, worn-out and useless clothing, and all sorts of useless and cast-off things that can be found in even the smallest household.

The campaign workers have nearly completed the distribution of the bags and the collection will start in a few days. There is no doubt that the crop of waste will be bumper one for Lowell people are glad of this frugal way to assist the guild in raising funds.

Through eight years of steady upward growth, the guild has spread its work, until now ten district nurses leave the guild house daily to make rounds of visits to the sick in all parts of the city. Each nurse makes a short visit to every patient on her list, doing whatever services require special nursing skill and instructing some member of the family in the scientific and sanitary methods of caring for the sick person. A fee of 55 cents is charged to all who are able to pay this sum.

Part of the nursing work includes instructing mothers in how to properly clothe and feed their babies, and special attention is given to this work, as the management considers teaching health measures one of the more important phases of caring for sickness. In addition to the baby welfare work done by the district nurse, a baby welfare station is maintained at the guild house, where babies are examined and weighed in the weekly conferences.

Salient results have been secured from the baby welfare work already and the officers hope to extend it a great deal further with the co-operation of public-spirited Lowell people.

Why do so many Women suffer with Anaemia?

THE answer to this is, they do not realize that they have Anaemia. WOMEN who work in factories, think they are "only tired" or "run-down" when they lose their appetite; do not sleep well; and get discouraged because they can't do more work. They have Anaemia.

OTHERS are pale and thin and hollow-eyed. They suffer with headaches and backaches, and their nerves are all unstrung. They have Anaemia and need RED PILLS.

STILL others are troubled with Palpitation, Dizziness, Exhaustion, and should be taking RED PILLS for Anaemia.

NOW, why are RED PILLS equally good for all these troubles? Because they are all the result of Anaemia or poor blood. Anaemia means that the blood does not contain enough of certain substances to properly nourish and re-build the body. RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women are food for the blood. They supply the elements which the blood requires to keep the whole system in perfect health.

AFTER a few weeks' treatment with RED PILLS, you notice a difference in yourself. You feel brighter and happier. You can do more work. You work easier. Headaches and backaches disappear. Nerves are forgotten. You eat and sleep better. And day by day, the improvement goes on as RED PILLS feed the blood, until—before you realize it—you are a well, happy, contented woman.

IF you now know that you are suffering from Anaemia, don't let the trouble develop into something more serious. Stop it now—get well—by taking RED PILLS for pale and weak women, the infallible prescription for Anaemia.

MRS. I. ROULEAU, 44 Main Street, Northbridge, Mass., says: "Working in the factory had weakened me to such a point that I was quite discouraged, and I thought I was a very sick woman. This excessive weakness was bringing on to me all kinds of pains, troubles and sufferings. RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women brought me back to health in no time. A few boxes made all the difference in the world to me. Not only have they helped me, but they have also proved very helpful to my young daughter who was fifteen years of age, and who was having a great deal of trouble at this critical period of her life. Now we both take them now and again, when we feel depressed, or when we feel weak, and they have always done for us the good we are looking for."

CAUTION:—The formula of RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women was first discovered in Paris, in the year of 1870, by a famous French specialist.

They have been largely used in France by French women ever since. American women are now using them with gratifying results for the treatment of Anaemia and general debility.

Insist on the signature:—"CIE CHIMIQUE FRANCO AMERICAINE", and the serial number on each box. 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50 at dealers or by mail. Franco-American Chemical Company Limited, 212 Milk Street, Boston, Mass.

While the district nursing is partly self-supporting, the baby welfare work is entirely free, and it is for the support and furtherance of this work that the funds from the waste campaign will be used.

GIRL DANCER SHOT IN MANSFIELD HALL

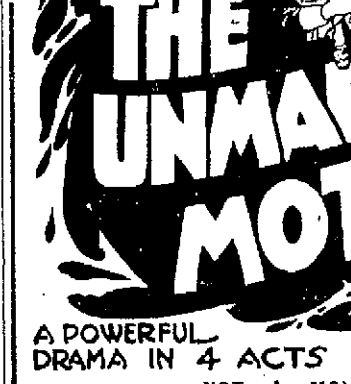

MANSFIELD, May 29.—LeRoy Trot of 19 Union street, Taunton, entered the town hall last night during a dance given by Co. E. 11th Infantry, U.S.G., and it is alleged fired four shots from a revolver into the body of Florence Sullivan, one of the dancers. He then turned the revolver upon himself and pulled the trigger, but the cartridge failed to explode. Before he could fire again he was set upon by a group of state guardsmen, unarmed, and lodged in the lockup downstairs.

Miss Sullivan, who lives at the same Taunton address as Trot was rushed to the Morton hospital in Taunton, where it was found that she had received two bullets in a lung and one in a wrist. No hope is held out for her recovery.

Consternation bordering on panic followed the shooting. It was said that Miss Sullivan came to the dance with someone other than Trot.

LOWELL HEBREWS HOLD MASS MEETING

That the Jews in Poland are being mercilessly slain; that their homes are being plundered, business establishments demolished and synagogues destroyed, and that only recently 2200 Jews were killed and 10,000 deported from the country was the statement made by Atty. Bennett Silverblatt at a mass meeting of Lowell Hebrews held in Colonial theatre in Odd Fellows building last evening to protest against the atrocities which the Poles are alleged to have committed upon the Jews in Poland and the Ukrainians.

The meeting was well attended, and several talented local and out-of-town speakers were present, including Rabbi J. J. Gorman of Boston, Mayor Thompson, Rabbi Elias Wolfson, Frank Goldman and others. Atty. Silverblatt presided, and at the close of the meeting resolutions condemning the outrages against the Jews, and asking the peace conference for justice were adopted and a copy forwarded to President Wilson.

Atty. Silverblatt was the first speaker, and said that it was inconceivable that Poland, which a short time ago had won its freedom after having lived for centuries under the heel of Russian oppression should initiate its government with the murder of helpless men, women and children.

The treatment which our fellow countrymen are receiving, the speaker declared, was the outcome of the jealousy which had existed for several years, and which was caused by reason of the Jews outstripping the Poles in the few activities in which they were permitted to engage.

That the Jews are not asking any power to send an army to kill the participants in these outrages, was the speaker's final statement. He added that the object of the mass meetings which are being held throughout the country, was to protest against the treatment of the Jews, and to call them to the attention of the civilized world in order that the oppressors should be warned that once and for all these brutalities must cease.

Rabbi Gorman was the next speaker and made an impassioned speech in which he denounced the injustice of the atrocities and massacre on his countrymen at the hands of the Poles, and expressed the hope that President Wilson would intervene in their behalf.

Rabbi Wolfson, the next speaker, said that the reports from Poland showed that the treatment of the Jews is rapidly becoming worse, and that it was high time something should be done by the civilized powers to put a check to it. At Chynow over 100 Jewish women were driven partly dressed from their homes, he said, and forced to tramp for miles in the biting cold under military escort to the next town.

At the close of his speech he called for the singing of a memorial service by Samuel Kopelman, a cantor of this city, who in his official black and white robe, made an impressive figure as he sang the wonderfully weird and solemn service.

Mayor Thompson said that he was very glad to be able to show by his presence that he believed in their cause, and expressed the hope that the resolutions forwarded to the president would result in favorable action being taken in their behalf. He also spoke of the Jewish boys from Lowell who went overseas to do their bit for their adopted country.

Frank Goldman was the final speaker and emphasized the work done by the Jewish boys in the great conflict. The war had been fought that democracy should reign supreme throughout the world, he said, but Poland had still continued to oppress the Jews after her own freedom had been assured.

The committee in charge consisted of Frank Goldman, Solomon Haker, Bennett Silverblatt, A. S. Goldman, I. J. Quinn, and Max Goldman.

NEW CLUB FOR LOWELL

Club Formed at First Congregational Church Will Help Young Men

A new club was formed at the First Congregational church Tuesday evening. Preceding the organizing work there was a chafing dish supper served by 15 women of the church in pretty summer gowns. Then followed a half hour of community singing with Leader Brown in charge. The noted Boston speaker, "Sailor" Ryan, gave a half hour's patriotic talk which was listened to with great interest.

It was announced that the purpose of the gathering and of the club coming into existence was to have for its principal object the helping of young men to obtain an education by extending unostentatious financial help. It is hoped the club may attain a membership of 100 members by next fall. The club intends to make the element of friendliness, sociability and civic good works, the paramount objects of the work to be done by it.

Any young man in the city of good morals from any church or who may in fact not be a church attendant at all, may become eligible to be helped towards securing an education by funds of the club.

GOOD BUSINESS DURING MAY

Noticeable Upward Trend This Month, Reported by Federal Reserve Board

Indications Point to a Summer and Autumn of Unusual Activity

WASHINGTON, May 29—A noticeable upward trend in business during May, especially in those lines related to the leading retail trades which have felt the release of buying power, held back by the war, was reported today by the federal reserve board. Practically uniform reports from federal reserve agents point to a summer and autumn of unusual activity.

A warning was added, however, against accepting the prospective prosperity at its full face value until conditions became more clarified.

"The country now seems to be passing through a period of free expenditure or reaction from the enforced economy and business restrictions of the war period," a statement by the board said. "If the present activity should prove to be based principally on these causes, a reaction may be looked for when these forces have spent themselves."

The price and reconstruction situation was said to be practically a continuation of that already noted in April, with prices showing no tendency to retrograde. One federal Reserve bank finds "that the public is slowly adjusting itself to the conviction that there is to be no rapid post-war drop in prices and is reconciling itself to the probability that the old prices may never again be reached."

Agriculturally, the remarkable promise of the early spring appears to be sustained in an unusual degree, the statement says. Diversification, due to organized effort, is making progress and the cash returns to farmers are expected to be more than ever before. Prices of cattle are considerably higher than a year ago, while sheep are lower. Receipts of hogs have been smaller, with the price continuing to advance.

In steel and iron the month's output fell to the lowest figures in many months, but a much better tone in the market was noted. While the bituminous coal industry was reported depressed, with an output less than 70 per cent of that a year ago, operators were said to be optimistic for the future. The current use of fuel is in excess of production. After several weeks of almost no demand, the copper market showed a slight improvement.

General manufacturing was said to be showing decided improvement. The wool market was strong, with prices in favor of the seller. Large orders have been placed for yarns and finished goods and woolen and worsted mills are going back to full time. These conditions are reflected in the demand for dry goods and shoes. Shoe prices are being marked up for fall delivery, the outlook being for an increase of 25 to 50 cents a pair for retailers.

Retail trade is assuming unprecedented volume, while prices continue abnormally high. Retailers in most sections have made little or no adjustment, but continue to demand prices based upon war conditions. In New York large establishments report a volume of business two-thirds greater than a year ago and in Chicago returns range from 25 to 50 per cent in excess of 1918. In the south, there is said to be no contraction in the public buying power while a greater proportion of cash sales is reported.

In building there has been a distinct revival throughout the country. Real estate values are hardening, with sales of farm lands on the increase.

The banking position of the country is reported as on the whole sound, pressure percentages of the federal reserve system have shown an ability to hold their own.

At Lyndonville, Vt., a long freight train that was being switched in the railroad yard ran into the house occupied by Alexander Charland moving it off the foundation about two feet.

MARBLEHEAD, May 28.—The police and scores of citizens engaged in an elephant hunt here today. Four of the big animals broke away from their keepers while preparations were being made for the transfer to Peabody of a circus which showed here yesterday. The elephants finally were captured after their keepers had enticed them from the woods with peanuts and bananas.

President Wilson Cables Memorial Day Message

WASHINGTON, May 29.—President Wilson has cabled the following Memorial Day message:

"My fellow countrymen:—Memorial Day wears this year an added significance, and I wish, if only by a message, to take part with you in its observance and in expressing the sentiments which it inevitably suggests. In observing the day we commemorate not only the reunion of our own country but also now the liberation of the world from one of the most serious dangers to which free government and the free life of men were ever exposed. We have buried the gallant and now immortal men who died in this great war of liberation with a new sense of consecration. Our thoughts and purpose now are consecrated to the maintenance of the liberty of the world and of the union of its people in a single comradeship of liberty and of right. It was for this that our men conscientiously offered their lives. They came to the field of battle with the high spirit and pure heart of crusaders. We must never forget the duty that their sacrifice has laid upon us of fulfilling their hopes and their purposes to the utmost. This, it seems to me, is the impressive lesson and the inspiring mandate of the day.

BAR MEXICAN TROOPS

Permission For Passage of Carranza Force Through U. S. Territory Refused

WASHINGTON, May 28.—President Carranza has been notified by the American government that permission for the passage of Mexican troops through American territory will be withheld for the present. Mexico asked permission to move 2000 men from Agua Prieta to Juarez for operations against Villa.

It was said today officially that the decision of the government was based on the belief that the force which it was proposed to move through Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, would not be able to furnish protection to American citizens in northern Mexico because the revolutionists had cut the road between Juarez and Chihuahua.

It was made clear at the state department, however, that in the event President Carranza could show that there was greater necessity for the presence of 2000 men immediately south of the border at Juarez than at Agua Prieta, in the territory where the Yaqui Indians are becoming troublesome, the position of the United States might be altered.

The situation in Northern Mexico was described as somewhat delicate. Villa has become advised of Carranza's request and it is believed he is waiting with sufficient forces to make negligible any effort on the part of the federal troops to go to the relief of Chihuahua City.

Parade Striking Feature—Reviewed at City Hall by City Officials

Before fully 5000 people at Spalding park this afternoon the boys and girls of the Lowell high school presented their annual field day program, a kaleidoscopic review of military, physical and aesthetic marchings, maneuvers and dances. Previous to the exercises at the park the boys' regiment and the girls' battalions marched through the downtown.

PARADE WILL BE BIG FEATURE

G.A.R. and Other Organizations Will Visit the Various Cemeteries

Parade To Start From South Common at 4 P. M. —Exercises in the Evening

Lowell's 1919 observance of Memorial day promises to be one of the most pretentious and significant in years and practically every organization in the city, social, fraternal and military, will have a part in making the day's observance worthy of the traditions of the veterans of three wars whose martyred comrades are to be honored with imposing solemnity.

Not only will those who gave up their lives in the Civil, Spanish-American and world wars be lauded, but the living veterans will also be tendered receptions worthy of their valor and gallantry.

As usual, the high light of the day's program will be the time-honored Memorial day parade in the afternoon. Members of the G.A.R. will have the place of honor at the head of the line, preceded only by their escort, the Sons of Veterans. In past years, the veterans have drawn up at the end of

Memorial Day Programs Today, in the Public and Parochial Schools

Memorial day exercises in which the veterans of three wars received copious laudation were carried out in the local schools today and the programs this year were unusually interesting. Especially prevalent were references to the veterans of the world war and there was rarely a program that did not carry a panegyric for the men who died in the recent conflict as well as the martyrs of previous struggles.

Owing to the fact that field day was being held, there were no exercises at the high school and many of the grammar schools held their exercises in the morning rather than afternoon so that the pupils might attend the exercises at Spalding park.

There were no formal exercises at the Green or Riverside schools and at the Washington school the programs were carried out in the indoor gymnasium.

THE IRISH CONTROVERSY

Delegate White Disclaims Responsibility For Outcome of Mission's Efforts

PARIS, May 29.—Frank P. Walsh, one of the three representatives of Irish societies in the United States, who have endeavored to secure a safe conduct for Sinn Fein representatives to lay Ireland's case before the peace conference, has received a letter from Henry White, member of the American delegation to the peace conference disclaiming responsibility for the outcome of the mission's efforts.

Mr. White declares that he took part in no effort towards bringing Mr. Walsh and his colleagues in touch with the British, and that he was not aware of the incident until a few days ago.

With the G.A.R. will be the Spanish-American war veterans and the soldier and sailor veterans of the world war. The latter will be led by Lieut. Schuyler R. Waller and will make up a separate division.

The parade will start from the South common at 4 p. m. and will move over the usual route: Thorndike street to Middlesex, to Central, to Merrimack, to Moody and Monument square, where a volley will be fired in honor of the dead and then the parade will continue through Cabot street to Merrimack. It will be reviewed at city hall by members of the city government and then will be dismissed at Dutton street.

Reading the entire procession will be a large out-turning of the police department and every member who is not on duty is expected to take part. Chief Marshal Dudley L. Page and his staff will be next in line, followed by the Sons of Veterans escorting the three posts of the G.A.R.

The G.A.R. will have two floats in the parade and the Daughters of Veterans one. Following these features will come the Spanish war veterans and the world war veterans. Next will be various military, semi-military and social organizations. The parade

LONDON, May 28. (By A. P.)—Speaking at a luncheon given by the Daily Mail yesterday in his and Lieut. Commander Griev's honor, Harry G. Hawker belittled the organization which had won the United States the honor of the first crossing of the Atlantic by a heavier-than-air machine.

He declared that it was not a serious attempt, with a ship stationed at "every 20 yards."

"If you put a ship every 50 miles it shows you have no faith in your motor," he said.

This was greeted with absolute silence on the part of the men gathered at the luncheon, numbering between 250 and 300, nearly all of whom were British. A few minutes before they had cheered the statement that the American navy aviators had been successful in reaching Europe.

Hawker disclosed that on Saturday night, immediately preceding his start, he and Raynham had agreed that unless the wind changed they would start on Sunday for a flight by way of the Azores and Portugal. The wind veered slightly Saturday night, enough to give Hawker and Griev the chance to start from their airfield; but it was unfavorable for Raynham.

He declared that although the weather

was unfavorable, the success of the Americans forced him to start. "Any Englishman here," he said, "would have done the same thing under the same circumstances."

Lieut. Commander Griev said he was very nervous over his navigation abilities when he started, but soon ascertained that the navigation of an airplane was the same as of a ship. There were no difficulties until the clouds precluded the taking of sightings. He predicted that the navigation of airplanes would be a simple matter in the future.

The Daily Mail's 5000 pounds consolation prize was presented to the two airmen.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWERS

A pretty miscellaneous shower was held recently at the home of Mrs. Jas. Clarke, 266 Chelmsford street in honor of Miss Annie Clarke, who is soon to become the bride of Mr. Charles Howard. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion. The bride-to-be was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, including linen and cut glass. Although taken by surprise she responded in a fitting manner, thanking her many friends who were present. A delightful musical program was carried out in which the bride-to-be took a leading part. There were solos by Helen Sweeney, Mrs. McVey and Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Howard, Misses May McCusker, Vera Nazle, Jennie Clark. Refreshments were served after which games were enjoyed. The accompanists of the evening were Mrs. James Clark and

U. S. ARMY TODAY IS REAL UNIVERSITY

Private Edward Holton James, U. S. army recruiting service, spoke at four local theatres last evening in the interest of enlistments for the army, and his address was listened to with interest. Through the courtesy of the managements of the Merrimack Square, the Strand, Keith's and the Owl theatres he talked at length in each of these houses. Private James has had the interesting experience of being detained three years in a German prison because of utterances which were not entirely in accord with the views of the German government. In his speech last evening the soldier said that the army today is a real university which can give an education equal to any given by other institutions. The army is to play a big part in the future of the country and the elite of the nation will be found within its ranks. He urged young men to get in touch with Sgt. McLeod at the local recruiting station, 117 Merrimack street, where the advantages of the service will be explained.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERRED

The real estate holdings known for many years as the heirs of Maria T. Stevens have been transferred by a declaration of trust to three trustees and will hereafter be known as the Stevens Trust. The trustees are Tyler A. Stevens of Lowell and James H. Jolliffe and John H. Schoonmaker of Ware, Mass. The estate includes the American House property and other buildings in Central, Market and Middle streets. The property was acquired by Jonathan Tyler in 1821.

SURVIVORS OF TUSCANIA

Members of Sixth Battalion of 20th Engineers Return—Santa Paula Arrives

NEW YORK, May 28.—Many of the men of the sixth battalion of the 20th Engineers who came on the transport Santa Paula from Bordeaux yesterday, were survivors of the Tuscania, which was torpedoed off Ireland on Feb. 5, 1918. The 20th Engineers is the largest regiment in the American army with a total of 20,000 men, all lumberjacks, sawmill men and foresters from all over the country. Fourteen officers and 306 men of the regiment were on the Santa Paula, which brought a total of 2212 troops, including detachments of the 30th Infantry, 75th Division, and a detachment of the 32nd Field Artillery, 82d Division. Fifty-eight officers and 1968 men of the 356th Infantry, 89th arrived from Brest on the cruiser Huntington.

The Henry R. Mallory brought 27 officers and 1205 men of the 349th Infantry, 85th Division; detachments of the 20th Engineers and the 27th Military Police company.

TELEPHONE GIRLS HOLD ANNUAL MAY PARTY

Lincoln hall was a bower of beauty last evening, the occasion being the annual May party of the Lowell telephone operators, and the girls and boys forgot their bells, transmitters, plugs and switches as they danced away the too short hours on the polished floor to the strains of Markham's Novelty orchestra.

The dance program consisted of 11 numbers and four extras, and the gay colors worn by the young women, contrasted against the darker and more sombre hues of their partners, lent a colorful and pleasing effect to the event.

Here and there among the happy throng of telephonic devotees could be seen the erect forms of boys in khaki, recently returned from overseas, and who were willing to "tell the world" most emphatically that it was some treat to tread the light fantastic again with a Lowell girl.

During the intermission tea was served by John F. Ruana, Jr., and proved most acceptable, for the evening was almost too hot for indoor dancing.

Fully four hundred couples made up the evening's attendance, and as they regretfully looked for hats and wraps when the Big Ben at the postoffice tolled the midnight hour all were willing to go on record that the party had been one of the most enjoyable they had ever looked in on. Last evening's party was a joint event by the two unions, 193, and 562. The proceeds of the dance are to be used by the committee to furnish their newly acquired club rooms in Lincoln hall building.

The officers to whom the successful outcome of the event was mainly due were: General manager, Miss Helen Moran; assistant manager, Joseph McGirr; floor director, Ralph Scott; treasurer, Anna McQuaid, and chief aid, Anna McCartin.

LICENSE BOARD HOLDS HEARINGS

Archie Perron, who formerly maintained a lunch cart in Market street near the corner of Adams street, has moved his cart into one of the buildings in Cardinal O'Connell parkway and has filed an application for a license with the license commission. Inasmuch as there was opposition to the granting of the license by some unknown parties, a hearing on the matter was held before the commission at its last regular meeting.

Albert J. Blazon, appearing for Mr. Perron, informed the commission that a permit for the placing of the cart in the building had been secured from the office of the inspector of buildings at city hall and that most of the work, involving an expense of over a thousand dollars was almost completed. He asked the commission to act favorably on the application of his client.

Cornelius J. O'Neil appeared for remonstrants, names not given, and objected to the granting of the license on the ground that a lunch cart would interfere with the beauty of the parkway. He pointed out that the city has expended the sum of $12,000 in laying out the parkway and that sum was spent willingly to beautify that part of the city. He also stated that in his opinion there was no pressing need for a lunch cart in that particular part of the street. The hearing was continued until next Tuesday.

At the same meeting Officer Holland protested against the fitness regulations in the vicinity of Paige street and said the congregation of chauffeurs in the street was a nuisance. He asked the commission to take such action deemed necessary to remedy conditions. Lieut. Petrie stated that it required the services of two officers to keep fitness conditions in Paige street in running order.

Café-Cawfee COFFEE

Three soldiers crouched in the front line trench—cold, weary, hungry. Suddenly— they smiled, smiled and said in unison— "Café," from the Poilu; "Cawfee," from the Tommy; and from the Yank—"Coffee!"

COFFEE is the fighting man's drink. It did its bit in the war right manfully. In the camp, on the march, at the front, in the hut and hospital, wherever men fought and bled and suffered and died—there was coffee.

Ever and always the cry was—coffee! Because it gives cheer and comfort, and courage. It is soothing, quieting, sustaining. The tired man calls for it. Exhausted nature asks for it. After the lesson of this war—who shall say that coffee is not healthful—and needful?

Be thankful for coffee—for the delight of it, the benefit of it, the real downright goodness of it. There is nothing in the world you would miss one-half so much as coffee—if you were suddenly deprived of it!

Indeed—coffee is one of the truest and "real-est" of friends that Nature has given to men. Let us rejoice in it, and revel in it. Let us glory in the charm and flavor and piquancy of it. Let us toast our friends in it—"Here's to your health and happiness!"

Final Reports, Submitted at Last Night's Meeting, Put Lowell Over the Top.

Over the top again! Yes, the "Sallie" drive went up and over the hurdle at last evening's meeting, and once more the city of Lowell can take its place in the ranks of the cities and towns who carried through a winning campaign.

The quota assigned to the city was set at $33,000, and the reports made at the meeting showed a total of $33,191 to date and pledges made by various corporations which will bring the final total to considerable more.

Following the reports of the team captains, Mayor Thompson, chairman of the local drive made a brief speech in which he thanked every team captain and worker for the manner in which they had "carried on" for the doughnut girl.

He paid a special tribute to the four Elk teams, who have borne the major share of the work in the campaign, and whose report of last evening, made by the chairman, Samuel Scott, showed that they have raised over $9500 of the funds secured, making over one-fourth of the total amount contributed during the drive.

His Honor also took occasion to thank the theatrical managers who have given of their time and efforts to help send the drive over the top, and through whose untiring labors many additional dollars have come the "Sallie" way.

The mayor then introduced Hon. James E. Casey, vice chairman of the drive and head of Division A, who thanked the members of his teams for the way they had worked during the past week and also paid a glowing tribute to the angel lassies, who have come to mean more than words can tell to the boys who are daily coming back from the battlefields "over there."

Charles W. Halstead, chairman of Division B, was next called upon by His Honor to say a few words, and he also added his tribute to the work accomplished by his fellow-campaigners.

Adjutant Clark was the final speaker. He said that he was too full of thankfulness to say much, and added that the Salvation Army had made good in the past and would try and

"I had stomach trouble and constipation very bad for a long time. Tried everything, but kept getting worse. I could hardly eat anything and my bowels wouldn't move unless I took a physic every day. I have to support myself and two children, yet I was not able to work."

"The first bottle of Milks Emulsion did wonders for me, and I have continued its use until now I feel fine and can work every day. I have a good appetite, my stomach trouble has left me, and my bowels are as regular as clock work."—Mrs. Mary Widener, 103 S. Court st., Sioux City, Iowa.

Mrs. Widener found out what all sufferers should know—that pills, salts and physics do not end constipation, but usually make it worse. Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to run-down nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of asthma, chronic bronchitis, and tuberculosis of the lungs. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A truly wonderful medicine for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. COURT MARTIAL TRIAL

Nace Case Ends—Trial Judge Says Soldier Either Deserted or Plotted With Huns

ATL. May 29.—Closing arguments were made yesterday in the trial of Paul L. Nace, a private at Camp Devens, who in defense of a charge of desertion declared that he was kidnapped and detained aboard a German submarine because of his knowledge of certain airplane improvements.

Lieut. Francis M. Flanagan, counsel for Nace, said that not a single piece of evidence had been introduced successfully to contradict the story told by the accused man. Nace, he declared, was under cross-examination for six hours without making one contradictory statement.

"Only an honest person sure of the facts," he said, "could take the stand and conduct himself as Nace did. The boy's story was corroborated by witnesses both for the prosecution and the defense and by documentary evidence collected by expert investigators, who were straining every effort to secure some evidence that he was not telling the truth."

In the argument for the prosecution, Spindle City's paraders. Their wide tion, Lieut. E. H. Ziegler, trial judge-advocate of the court-martial, declared Nace "either was in touch with German agents and had voluntarily gone aboard the German submarine to turn over his plans or else the whole story is a falsehood and he deliberately deserted." Lieut. Ziegler declared that Nace's knowledge of mathematics was so deficient that he could not possibly have evolved plans of an airplane motor which would revolutionize aviation and said that drawings submitted to the court demonstrated no mechanical ability. As a possible motive for Nace wishing to leave the service, he said that his regiment at the time was scheduled to sail soon for France.

Private Nace was absent from Camp Devens from May to October of last year. According to his story to the court he was kidnapped near the camp and taken by automobile to the coast where he was placed aboard a German submarine and kept prisoner throughout the summer. He finally got off and swam ashore near the Cape Henry lighthouse on the Virginia coast. As he was being taken away from Camp Devens he managed to write a note telling of his predicament which he dropped from a truck, he said. Testimony regarding the receipt of such a note at the camp was presented and witnesses also told of Nace coming ashore at Cape Henry in October. Official records were introduced to show that submarines were operating off the coast during the period that Nace was absent from camp.

Capt. Norman Harrower, of Firenburg, the last witness, testified for the prosecution regarding a letter received at Camp Devens telling of Nace's plight. The defendant asserts that he wrote this letter while confined in a box on an automobile truck en route to the point where he was taken aboard the submarine.

Harrower, who was divisional intelligence officer at the time said the letter bore the postmark of some city in New York. It was poorly written and looked as though it was either the product of a man with little education or had been written in a moving vehicle. The irregularities however were not so great as they would have been if they had been written on the floor of a moving truck in the opinion of the witness. Immediately after receiving the letter Harrower called Nace's company together and found that he was absent without leave. The letter was regarded as a hoax at the time. On cross examination the witness repeated from memory the contents of the letter which said that Nace had been kidnapped and was being taken to a German submarine and asked that the navy department be notified. In reply to questions he said that the matter was being "given all deserved investigation" but that the navy department was not relieved.

HOW DO YOU GET LIKE THIS, TED?

It's really very much worth while to stand at Broadway and 42d street in 11' of New York and watch the parade of the female of the species, more often than not accompanied by her male escort. But right here in Merrimack square, if one has some spare time between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock at night, one can witness a parade, too, and it's not so bad at that.

The spool-heel division, with their escorts of bronzed and husky doughboys, own the square each evening at this time, as the cavaliers and their fair ladies saunter along on their way to movie, dance, vaudeville show or "just for a walk."

From the spirals on which the rainbow girls of the present season pirouette across the square in skirts too narrow to permit of such an old-fashioned sport as walking, to the tips of the fancy feathers that crown the high-topped hats, they are very colorful paraders, unlike any seen before since their sweethearts went overseas to follow the colors.

Arm in arm with the returned heroes of the 26th and other divisions, those of the feminine rainbow contingent radiate good cheer, and much of it is no doubt due not only to the fact that the boys are home, but in good measure also to the sense of being gownned to desire.

The boys have brought back the words to describe the flaming French tones that are oftentimes seen in the trimming of summer bonnets, rather than in the suit or coat. Chic indeed are the fur ties and short squirrel neckties, charming the headed bags that have a new vogue this spring. Elaborately buckle-trimmed are the pumps which defy man's comprehension when any attempt is made to find a reason for woman's leaning toward these toppling, tripping, upbuilding spool heels aforesaid.

How to navigate in the trouserless skirts is something which is a great puzzle to the sailors who drop around now and then for a brief look at the Spindle City's paraders. Their wide

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Below is what the press agents of the different theatres say of the current attractions and of others to come:

R. F. KEITH THEATRE

In no act seen at the Keith theatre this present year have so many funny things occurred as in the Rostock Ritzing school, which is specially featured on this week's bill. The demonstration of how riders are taught is that portion of the act in which everybody just lets go and laughs to his heart's content. It is unusual, wholesome, funny to the very limit. The regular riders of the act also do a nice piece of work. Comedy plays a large part in the musical act of Ward and Van. Good musicians are they, but they lack in some of the touches which nobody will fail to understand. Horace Wright and Rene Dietrich have an act of prettiness and good music. Both have entertained the soldiers in France, and they have brought back with them reminiscences of their months "over there." Other acts on the bill are: Nell and Murray, blackface comedians; El Cleve, the little xylophonist; Conway and Fields, singing and patter; and La Emma and Boyd, aerialists.

THE STRAND

Into recent film history have been written the names of a variety of capable actors who have entertained the public by providing thrills. In this class belongs George Walsh, former speed king of the cinder path and erstwhile player of professional baseball. Walsh doesn't ask us to take our thrills in homeopathic doses either, and he gives us with them, for good measure, a palatable coating of comedy. In witness whereof is cited "Help! Help! Police!" which is being shown at The Strand for the last three days of the week. Don't miss it.

It's hardly necessary to again inform the patrons that "Common Clay," the wonderful Harvard prize play, is attracting banner crowds at all performances. Fannie Ward in the role of "Ellen Neal," the young girl who finds it hard to resist temptation, but proves herself real gold instead of "common clay" is most commendable. Don't miss it.

LAKEVIEW PARK

Balmy nights, Lakeview park, Miner-Doyle's 10-piece orchestra, Barney Horan's molodies, hoating, dancing, perfect pleasures, all these for a few thin dimes. Go tonight—go there Memorial day, when there will be dancing from 1 p. m. to midnight. Good car service—ride from your home.

Tightens Her Skin—Loses Her Wrinkles

"I want to tell you how easily I got rid of my wrinkles," writes Luella Marsh. "While in London a friend, much envied because of her youthful looks, gave me a formula for a home-made preparation which has the effect of instantly tightening the skin, thus smoothing out wrinkles and furrows. The principal ingredient is powdered saxolite, which can be had at drug stores here. An ounce of saxolite is dissolved in a half pint, which, after bathing my face in this but once the transformation was so marvelous I looked years younger. Even the an-noying creases about my neck. It seems difficult to believe anything could produce such results. Several to whom I recommended the recipe have been similarly helped, and an elderly lady whose cheeks had become quite baggy."—Social Mirror.—Adv.

Soldier Wanted Uncle Sam

Sought "Comps" For Seven
—"Must Have Been Great-
est Soldier," Says Clark

BREST, May 18.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—American soldiers who escaped from the embrace of Mars but who fell before the darts of Cupid and married French girls are permitted by Uncle Sam to bring home their brides at the expense of the government.

Recently there appeared at the troop movement office a burly sergeant, accompanied by a woman bearing a babe in arms, three other anxious looking women, an elderly woman and an old gentleman.

They were respectively, the wife, baby, sisters-in-law, mother-in-law and father-in-law of the sergeant. He wanted them to return to America with him.

"You win," said the desk officer. "You must have been the greatest soldier of them all, you certainly have nerve."

G. Zuber and Frank Burkhouse, all of Lawrence, who pleaded guilty, and paid fines of $7 each; Charles A. Kunhart and Samuel Katz of Lawrence, whose cases were continued until June 12; and Donald C. Bennett, William J. Menderson of Boston and Samuel L. Cogan of Haverhill, who pleaded not guilty and whose cases were disposed of as follows: Bennett, $7 fine; Menderson, $15 fine; Cogan, $12 fine.

Two officers representing the Massachusetts state highway commission appeared for the prosecution, and testified that during the past three weeks they had apprehended the ten men on the Lawrence boulevard, and that their headlights were not properly dimmed as provided by the statutes.

The specific charge alleged against the defendants was that the headlights on their machines were not so arranged that no dazzling rays from them, or from them were not more than three and a half feet above the ground on a level road at a distance of 50 feet or more.

So far as is known these are the first cases of this kind which have come before the local court, and the various angles and ramifications of the law were thrashed out at considerable length before the cases were concluded.

Other offenders
"My little boy was crying for the flowers so I picked some for him," was the defense offered by Charles Roseveag, who was charged with unlawfully picking flowers in Fort Hill park. He was found guilty and paid a fine of $5.

William Burns and Kriger Onanish were charged with receiving stolen property, alleged to belong to the U. S. Fish Commission. A continuance was granted until June 6, and pleas of not guilty entered by both.

Samuel Russell and Clara Lyons pleaded guilty to a statutory charge, and their cases were ordered continued until Saturday.

Several minor cases of assault and battery were called and continued, and an unusually small delegation of offenders charged with drunkenness paid small fines or were placed on probation.

Vatican Represented

The Vatican is represented officially at Paris for the first time since the peace conference began work. Monsignor Ceretti, papal under secretary of state, being in the city to discuss with cabinet chiefs the status of Catholic missions in lands affected by the deliberations of the conference. It is probable that he will be officially received by the conference because of the clause in the treaty of London between Great Britain, France and Italy which barred the Vatican from participation in discussions regarding questions connected with the war.

AGREEMENT WITH

ITALY REACHED

PARIS, May 28.—A settlement of the Adriatic question is now a certainty as a result of negotiations yesterday. It is stated, in high quarters, under this settlement, Fiume becomes an independent city.

The Italians will receive certain of the Dalmatian islands, but it is understood that they will not get Zara or Sebenico.

AUSTRIAN TREATY

NOT YET COMPLETED

PARIS, May 28.—When the peace conference met in plenary session this afternoon to hear the Austrian peace terms, it was announced that the treaty had not yet been completed. It was decided, therefore, to postpone the session until Saturday, when the completed treaty is expected to be ready.

It is reported that the presentation of the terms to the Austrian delegation has been postponed until Monday. It had been set for tomorrow noon.

Another reason for the postponement of the plenary session was a request from the smaller powers, especially the Balkan states, that they be allowed further time to consider the terms.

GERMAN COUNTER

PROPOSALS DELIVERED

PARIS, May 28.—The counter proposals formulated by the German delegation at Versailles have been delivered to the French authorities for consideration by the Council of Four today. The German reply was received in installments. The first comprised 88 pages.

The reply is written in German and bears the caption: "Observations of the German delegation on the conditions of peace."

SIX NURSES GRADUATE

Lowell General Hospital

Training School Graduated

Class of Nurses Yesterday

The Lowell general hospital training school graduated a class of six nurses with appropriate exercises yesterday afternoon. Three of the graduates are Lowell girls, Marion E. Colby, Mildred G. Fay and Helen J. Hoyt, while the other three are Florence H. Crimmins of Haverhill, Arabella F. Omer of Lower La Haye, N. S., and Anna L. Simpson of Manchester, N. S. The exercises were held in one of the new hospital buildings.

Arthur G. Pollard, president of the board of trustees, presided. Following an orchestra selection and the invocation by Rev. Frederick W. Hamilton, D.D., Mr. Pollard introduced Mayor Perry D. Thompson as the first speaker. Mayor Thompson spoke of the devotion and loyalty of Lowell nurses through the serious times of influenza epidemics and said that he felt sure that the kindness and work of these in charge of the hospital prevented suffering and death in countless cases.

Frank Hanchett, chairman of the executive committee, explained why the new hospital building in which the graduation exercises were held, had not been opened for service. The chief reason, he said, is that the hospital has not had the working end to balance the needs and requirements of this particular building. War conditions prevented the carrying out of the plans to provide a modern kitchen, sleeping rooms and dining room. Mr. Hanchett called attention to the fact that during the war fully 60 per cent of the hospital staff went into the service. He highly complimented the head of the institution, Miss Bertha W. Allen, and her assistants.

Frederick W. Hamilton, D.D., LL.D., a member of the state board of education, gave the principal address. He said in part:

"War was one great agency which promoted the profession of nursing. When the British and French went into the Crimea to fight the Russians, men had not learned that war is a serious business, but it is sure to occur sooner or later, and that it is necessary to prepare for it. Under the bad sanitary conditions practically every wound became infected immediately. The men went from unsanitary camps to unsanitary hospitals and promptly died. The London Times told the British people just what was happening there in the Crimea, and the first result was the going out of Florence Nightingale, taking with her a few women whom she trained on the spot, and teaching the men how to be sanitary, bringing to them the blessed gospel of cleanliness and sanitation. When she came back a fund was raised for the opening of a hospital training school in London.

"Then came our Civil war, and the same experience was repeated here. Six per cent of all the wounds proving fatal. Those two wars and the growing knowledge of the importance of after-care, gave impetus to the development of this profession.

"Then came another great element, science. Science calls to its aid, and personally. One of all this came a profession—a humble one, it is true, because the physician stands at the mountain top and gives orders to the nurse standing down in the valley. Yet almost any surgeon would say that he would be almost helpless but for the nurse. And so it has grown to be one of the most notable professions that the world knows today, a profession which calls for the exercise of skill, courage and tact. A profession which enables those who practice it, if they practice it with a conception of what they are doing, I know of no task that is as noble, if it is viewed in its largest sense. I do not know of any task that is nobler, if it is undertaken simply as a means of gain. The thing that is noble, if it is viewed in the social life today, is the materialistic view of life. I want to congratulate you on having a work whose larger and finer aspects are more obvious than they are in some other occupations."

Dr. G. Forrest Martin, acting president of the hospital staff, before beginning his address, called upon Dr. Frank E. Phillips, house physician, and presented him a diploma to recognize his faithful service at the hospital during the past year and a half. In the course of his address Dr. Martin said:

"Some of our men were able to get across. Those who were not, wanted to. But when they joined the service they found under orders, and it matters not where a man gave his service, he is equally deserving of credit. Maj. Bryant was in service on the Texas front before we were in this war at all, and nothing but an unfortunate sickness of his own prevented him from being one of the first to go across."

Maj. Pulsifer went into the service as captain, was soon raised to be major, and was regimental surgeon with his men on the European front. "Capt. Lambert was one of the early men in the X-ray first, and afterwards on surgical cases.

"Capt. Jewett sacrificed his work and has been serving since last November in Europe. Word has just come to me that he will get his discharge and be home today.

"Lieut. Gardner has been active service in several of the camps and several of the training schools for surgeons in this country. He was ready to sail when prevented by the signing of the armistice. I understand he will be with us tomorrow.

"Lieut. Blanchard saw service in the camps and has returned to practice.

"Dr. Rogers was in active service on the European front. He is today serving again on our hospital staff.

"Mrs. Tabor and Ailing are still in the service.

"We have also sent 25 of our graduate nurses into the service. I have no hesitation in saying that no hospital of our size in New England—doubt if any in the country—can give proper recognition to the nurses which we have established.

"I suppose the nurses realize, in a way, what the return of these men from the service is going to mean for them. It is going to mean some new problems for you. You have got to study French, and be ready for these doctors when they come home."

HOLD BARNEY'S LAWYER

Attorney Murphy Arrested

On Charge of Aiding in

Client's Escape

BOSTON, May 28.—Thomas F. Murphy, counsel for Herman L. Barney, under indictment with others for the murder of Patrolman Deinger in a garage in Chelsea, and whose daring escape from the Charles street jail one day last week is one of the sensations in Boston police circles, was arrested late yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with aiding and assisting in Barney's escape.

Murphy was arrested shortly after 5 p. m. in his office in the Sears building, and so quickly was the affair conducted that none but those immediately concerned was aware of it. Capt. Matthew J. Delley of the Hingham street station and Sgt. Maurice W. Sullivan of headquarters were the arresting officers, and Murphy, accompanied by a friend, and the officers walked through Court street and Pemberton square to police headquarters without attracting attention.

Murphy was first brought before Police Supt. Michael H. Crowley and shortly afterward to the office of the inspectors, where he was booked. On the whole, he spent less than an hour at headquarters, as he was released on $1000 bail shortly before 6 o'clock, his surety being Edward B. McGirr of Cambridge, an architect, with office at 8 Beacon street, this city. Murphy will be arraigned in the Brighton court today.

Murphy Pleads Not Guilty
BOSTON, May 28.—Thomas F. Murphy, counsel for Herman L. Barney, pleaded not guilty today to a charge of aiding and abetting Barney in his recent escape from jail. Murphy announced that he was prepared to go on with the case immediately, but at the request of the police, his hearing was set for June 11.

Barney, who was recaptured after two days of liberty and will be placed on trial June 18, is charged with the murder of Policeman Charles E. Deinger while the policeman was engaged in an attempt to arrest a gang of automobile thieves.

In addition to Murphy, two women are under arrest on suspicion that they assisted in Barney's escape.

The stores represented voted to open daily at 8:30 a. m. and to close on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays not later than 6 p. m. On Thursday they will close at 12 noon and on Saturdays not later than 10 p. m. The women's wear stores which have adopted this schedule are: Caesar Misch Co., Cherry & Webb, Boston Ladies' Outfitters, Cook, Taylor & Co., Pollack's, Empire Clothing Co., Grant & Co., Lemkin's Cloak & Suit store, the Quality shop, United Cloak & Suit store, the Rogers Co. and the Rialto.

LIQUOR STORE ENTERED
The liquor store of Mr. L. P. Tur-

cott in Worthen street was broken into some time after 11 o'clock last night and the thief got away with $30 in cash. In order to gain an entrance the intruder by using a crowbar broke two iron bars over a transom in the rear of the shop and then squeezed through the small opening. The money was taken from the cash registers, but as far as is known no liquor was stolen. The break was discovered at about 2 o'clock this morning by Officer Lupan, who found a crowbar near the rear door of the store. Mr. Turcott stated this morning that during the past three months at least 12 breaks have been committed in business places in his district and this is due, he said, to the fact that proper police protection is not given the district.

WAR DEPT. CALLS FOR BIDS ON CANNED GOODS
WASHINGTON, May 28.—First steps by the war department looking to the disposition in this country of part of the enormous surplus stock of canned and cured meat held by it were taken today with the mailing of invitations for bids to some 1200 of the larger state and municipal hospitals, asylums and charitable and penal institutions. Invitations also were sent to officials of the Salvation Army, the purchasing board of New York city, and the New York state hospital board.

Conferences were held recently between war department officials and the industry and it was agreed to export as much of the 14,000,000 pounds of surplus meat as possible. Institutions in this country which now have been invited to bid on the meat were selected because their requirements are sufficiently large to permit them to purchase in carload lots.

The canned meat is stored in 10 great warehouses in eastern and middle western cities.

SERVICE MEN HONORED

Ladies' Auxiliary of 101st
Regiment Banquets Co. M
Boys and Others

One of the pleasant features of the very enjoyable evening of good time and reunion the Ladies' Auxiliary of the 101st Regiment was able to afford the Company M boys and others at the 101st Regiment last evening was the tribute paid by former Mayor Walter Hopkinson, of Newburyport, to the boys of the Lowell company who "guarded Newburyport from invasion" in the spring of 1917.

Said Mr. Hopkinson last night when called upon by Toastmaster James O'Sullivan to make an address "In the spring of 1917 when our country had entered the war against Germany it occurred to me people at Newburyport that the bridge in our city across the Merrimack used by the Boston and Maine railroad, should have a military guard. We made such representation to the commanding officer at Boston in charge of such matters who happened at the time to have been the dearly beloved Col. Logan. We reported that we believed this bridge should be guarded not only because it was a connecting link between Boston and the Portsmouth navy yard but because it was on the route between Boston and Canadian ports through which American troops were soon to be sent on their way to the battlefields of Europe. Troops ticketed for Halifax would have to cross this bridge.

"You can imagine the surprise of us staid old Newburyporters when, on going to the station to welcome the bridge guard we had been informed would come to our city, we beheld 120 stalwart, stout-hearted soldier boys hustle down from the special cars with their equipment. We learned they were members of Co. M, a Lowell outfit. Well, my friends, we may be slow but we are hospitable in Newburyport and we hustled around and got those boys billeted for four weeks in the Y.M.C.A. and at the end of that time tonight was provided them and they camped on our beautiful common, Bartlett Mall, in the heart of our city.

"We were pleased with having your boys among us, Mr. Mayor. We found that we were entertaining not only soldiers of first quality, but gentlemen as well. We shall never forget the Lowell boys, those who were among us in the spring of 1917, those who gave their lives for us in France, nor those who by God's mercy survive and our own Newburyport boys joined Co. M.

"When it came time for them to be relieved from duty of guarding the bridge, we mustered the band of our city and 5000 of our citizens escorted Co. M to its train. We stood with bared heads and tears in our eyes when your boys started away. I tell you honestly, my friends, we tried to bid them as affectionate a farewell as we did our own boys when they were called later. Some three weeks ago or so, it was the privilege and honor of Newburyport to welcome Co. M back again for a reception and we certainly turned out for them. I want to tell you that these Co. M boys honored me by coming in a body and calling on me at my home. I would rather have had this honor extended to me and am more proud of it, than I would be to be president of the United States. Newburyport loves the Co. M boys. In future years all one of these boys will have to do is to say, when he comes to our city, I was one of the Company M boys, and he will be made to feel right at home."

When ex-Mayor Hopkinson was announced as the speaker the Co. M boys who occupied a table by themselves paid him the tribute of standing.

It was estimated that about 500 persons attended the dinner last evening, which was one of Caterer Leyden's best turkey spreads with all the accompanying fixings, food enough for everyone, and to spare. The program started with a welcome song sung by the mothers, sisters and sweethearts, and divine blessing was invoked by Rev. John P. Flynn, O.M.L., pastor of the Sacred Heart church. The address of welcome was made by Mrs. William H. Merritt, chairman of the 101st Auxiliary, and then she turned the meeting over to Toastmaster James O'Sullivan, who paid an eloquent tribute to the women of this auxiliary and the work they had accomplished for the boys.

Mayor Thompson was the first speaker of the evening and said that he brought extremely good news to the boys of Co. M and their friends which he knew they would be glad to hear, and it was that Lowell had jumped the barrier and made her $25,000 quota for the Salvation Army drive, "and then some," as the mayor smilingly added. The mayor was in his usual happy vein and said that he felt he ought to talk only a short time as he knew the boys were anxious to get at the dancing and he was as anxious as any of them.

Commissioner James E. Donnelly gave a choice program of songs, patriotic and humorous, and had the big audience right with him. Vocal music of an enjoyable nature was also given by Mrs. Nora Regan Longtin and James E. King. After the musical and speaking program was finished the soldiers and their friends were requested by Mr. O'Sullivan to adjourn to the balcony for a short time so that the floor could be cleared of its tables and made ready for the dancing.

The officers of the 101st Ladies' Auxiliary are: Mrs. William H. Merritt, chairman; Mrs. George B. Marshall, vice chairman; Miss Mollie O'Sullivan, secretary; Miss Mary Lang and Miss Nellie V. Donahue, treasurers, and Miss Anna L. Spillane, historian. The arrangements for last evening's delightful affair were in the hands of Miss Lillian Barton, Mrs. George B. Marshall, Mrs. John M. Donoghue, Mrs. James J. Spillane and Miss Anna Spillane. The reception committee was composed of the mothers of the auxiliary.

Two unusual incidents of the banquet was the call made by Toastmaster O'Sullivan for all the persons present to remain standing two minutes as a tribute to the soldier dead of Lowell. Mr. O'Sullivan also took occasion to announce that the auxiliary had felt grateful to Congressman Rogers for a kindly service he had rendered one of the boys. It seems that a Lowell boy, Private Wayne, had leave from a Boston military hospital where he has been receiving treatment and his leave expired too soon for him to attend the banquet, much as he wished to. The auxiliary enlisted Mr. Rogers' aid and he wired a request to the hospital commander in Boston to have Private Wayne's leave extended, and it was done. Private Wayne was asked to stand up when this announcement was made and he received a fine reception.

Besides the members of Co. M, the banquet also had as guests men from the military police of the 101st, men from the 101st Engineers and train and from the 101st Headquarters Company. It was plain on the faces of all the soldier boys present they were certainly enjoying themselves, and it was equally plain to be seen that the women of the auxiliary were glad to be able to provide the good time.

Among the invited guests sitting at the head table were Commissioners Charles J. Morse and Dennis A. Murphy, Robert R. Thomas, Rev. N. W. Matthews of Gorham Street P.M. church, Rev. John P. Flynn, O.M.L., and Hon. Walter Hopkinson of Newburyport.

BRITTON AND AHEARN IN TOWN

Fred Moore, matchmaker of the Crescent A. A. telephoned The Sun this afternoon that Jack Britton, welterweight champion and Young Ahearn, the Brooklyn "dancing master," who are scheduled to box here tomorrow night, arrived in town today. Ahearn reached Lowell this morning, while Britton and his manager came here just after the noon hour.

DEDECKED FOR OBSERVANCE City hall and Monument square are all bedecked for the observance of Memorial day. The national colors have been tastefully arranged on the front of the building as well as at the Merrimack street entrance where the city council will review tomorrow's parade. The monuments in front of the municipal building have also been garbed in the national colors.

ASK GRAN'MA, SHE KNOWS!

Our grandmothers know that millions of people, children and adults, have worms, either in stomach or bowels. This trouble is just as frequent now as it ever was but people don't know it. Ask Gran'ma—she knows!

A Roxbury, Mass., grandmother writes to Dr. J. E. True & Co., Auburn, Me., saying: "I have always used your Dr. True's Elixir for my children and they are all healthy and well today. I put great faith in your medicine and one of my children was dying. The doctor said she could not live until morning and I ran out to the drug store, got a bottle of True's Elixir, was so excited I gave her half of the bottle at once and at night I gave her the other half. I thought it's either kill or cure for the doctor says she is dying anyway, but she did not die. She went to sleep, the first sleep for a week, and the next morning she passed two worms, red in color, six inches long. The doctor came to see if she was dead but he ran out pretty quick as she was sitting in her chair eating a bowl of oatmeal and milk. That was twenty-four years ago and now she has a baby girl of her own, seven months old, who is also using the Elixir."

FINAL HOP OF NC-4 TOMORROW

Com. Read Plans To Start
From Lisbon For Plymouth, England, on Holiday

British Air Ministry Is Planning To Give Crew a Great Reception

BREST, May 29.—Seaplane NC-4 will probably start from Lisbon tomorrow, weather permitting, as Lieut. Commander A. C. Read wishes to reach England on Memorial day, according to a wireless message picked up here by the George Washington from the Rochester, which is lying in the roads at Lisbon.

Washington Without News WASHINGTON, May 29.—Further than the brief message received last night from Lieut. Commander Read, commander of the craft, the navy department early today still was without information concerning resumption of the transatlantic flight by the NC-4. That message, filed at 5:10 p. m., Lisbon time, stated: "NC-4 will not start tomorrow," but gave no reason for the delay. As previous reports had indicated, the machine and its personnel were in fit condition for continuing the flight, the assumption was that weather conditions unfavorable to a start had developed.

To Honor Americans PLYMOUTH, England, May 29.—Adverse weather conditions at Lisbon caused the postponement last night of the start of the NC-4 for England, according to word received here. The torpedo boat Stockton which was given a position in the English channel along the route which the NC-4 is expected to follow, has gone to Brest, taking spare parts for the seaplane which may be used in case of a mishap.

The British air ministry is planning to give the NC-4 crew a great reception. Three flying boats, in addition to two airplanes, will go out to escort the Americans to the royal air force mooring station in the Cattewater, the mouth of the Plym river.

The Americans will be guests of honor at the royal air force station, probably on the day after their arrival.

PROUD OF READ Gov. Coolidge Congratulates NC-4 Commander

BOSTON, May 29.—Gov. Coolidge yesterday cabled congratulations to Lieut. Commander Albert C. Read, who commanded the naval seaplane NC-4 on the transatlantic flight. "The people of Massachusetts," the message said, "rejoice that you are one of her sons and congratulate you on being the first to fly across the Atlantic. You have increased the fame of your native commonwealth. Your skill and daring has again made America first."

"ALL PROUD OF YOU" Pres. Wilson's Wire to Commander Read

PARIS, May 29.—President Wilson yesterday sent this message to Lieut. Commander Read of the NC-4: "Please accept my heartfelt congratulations on the success of your flight and accept for yourself expression of my deep admiration. We are all heartily proud of you. You have won and deserve the distinction of adding still further to the laurels of our country."

HORLICK'S THE ORIGINAL MALTED MILK Avoid Imitations and Substitutes

Physicians Recommend Castoria

YOU know the real human doctors right around in your neighborhood: the doctors made of flesh and blood just like you: the doctors with souls and hearts: those men who are responding to your call in the dead of night as readily as in the broad daylight; they are ready to tell you the good that Fletcher's Castoria has done, is doing and will do, from their experience and their love for children.

Fletcher's Castoria is nothing new. We are not asking you to try an experiment. We just want to impress upon you the importance of buying Fletcher's.

Your physician will tell you this, as he knows there are a number of imitations on the market, and he is particularly interested in the welfare of your baby.

Children Cry For Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy? why you must insist on Fletcher's? For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come, we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

IN 360 MILE FLIGHT

Capt. James Flies From Atlantic City to Boston For Globe Trophy

BOSTON, May 29.—At a speed of about 115 miles an hour, Capt. Mansell James of the British Royal Air Force flew yesterday in a Sopwith airplane from Atlantic City, N. J., to Boston for the Boston Globe aerial trophy and a cash prize of $1000.

The machine Capt. James flew is what is known as a "Camel"—one of the speediest machines built and the machine which downed the German Albatross in the war. This and the French Spad were the two fast machines with which the allies were able to gain air domination over the Germans, and this is the first time a Camel has been down in this country.

Not Strong Head Winds The Camel, under normal conditions, is capable of 150 miles an hour, but Capt. James had strong head winds nearly all the way from Atlantic City to Boston—a distance of 360 miles—and this reduced his time to 115 miles an hour.

This is one of the fastest flights ever made in this country and will in all probability capture the Globe trophy and cash prize of $1000, as Melvin Hodgdon's flight last week from Boston to Atlantic City, over the same course, was made at a speed of about 90 miles an hour.

Capt. James went 25 miles an hour faster than Hodgdon.

First Flight in America

A remarkable thing about this flight of Capt. James was that he had never flown in this country before and found his way by chart and compass to a field eight miles north of Boston. He went right straight to the field as if he had been flying the course all his life.

The only thing to guide him to that field was a flying machine that had been placed near the point where he was expected to land and of which he had been notified by telegraph early in the day.

And, curiously enough, so trained are the eyes of aviators for flying machines that he was able to see this machine—a mere speck on the field—when he was about four miles

A PRISONER OF LOWELL

There is no greater prisoner than the man or lady who is chained to their chairs in their own home by rheumatism.

Don't remain a volunteer sufferer; hundreds in Lowell have found relief and have tried to show you the way. Mr. Pierre Messier, 94 Carolyn Street, Lowell, says:

"I did more than that. It stopped my getting up nights and my headaches. I am eating better and feel stronger in every way. This may not seem important to those who haven't had rheumatism or kidney trouble, but I tell you it was worth a lot to me to get rid of it. I wish I could tell just how much better I feel so others would not hesitate to try that medicine. I am Pierre Messier, 94 Carolyn Street, Lowell, Mass. The Lawrence Mfg. Co. of Lowell and if you will send a coupon to me I will try to tell them about Goldine, so they will understand what it will really do for rheumatism."

"Mr. Messier had his picture taken and signed this statement that you might know what Goldine had done for a Lowell man. We can add nothing to such an evidence. Remember it is GOLDINE that Lowell people are taking and praising and sending their friends after not a few but by the hundreds. You don't need to come down town for GOLDINE, go to your nearest drugstore for it, or call at Lowell Drug Co., 412 Merrimack Street; Red Cross Pharmacy, 411 Broadway Street; or Crye & Crawford, 474 Merrimack Street. "THE GARDEN OF THE BRAVE"

BY SIR JOHN FOSTER FRAZER

I know that in the United States, just as in Great Britain, thoughts often travel to the torn and tortured battlefields where the poppies bloom in summer time above the dead. I know that many generous Americans are willing to provide money to restore the broken villages and lift up again the prostrate towns. In France it is sometimes thought it would be better if over that sad region a noble, silent forest grew as sentinel. But there comes to me a vision of that fearful land becoming bright as a beautiful garden—the garden of the brave.

In my vision I see miles and miles radiant with the lovely fleur-de-lis nodding above the plains where over a million brave Frenchmen are taking their long but glorious rest. I see the blooms of Belgium and Italy, and oh! I see great bunches of American golden rod marking the spot where your own brave lads do sleep away from home.

In my garden of the brave there is a mighty avenue, all gold and crimson, maple trees making splendid sentinels above the boys who came from Canada. And I find sheaves of wheat so that we shall know what gallant Australia did. Yonder is a stretch of green, vivid, soft, all of shamrock, providing a coverlet over the Irishmen who played their true part. Oh, and in my garden I see roses, the roses of Lancaster and York, so that we may bow our heads where over 50,000 young Englishmen sleep side by side.

In my garden of the brave I see masses of purple heather; and standing amid it I hear the sound of the pipes, for the pipes are ever to be heard amongst the heather which cloaks the long slumber of my own fighting Highland men. That is the vision I often behold. It can never be real and yet I would not shut it out.

The Florentine sang, "Sweet and fit it is to die for one's country!" But may I say that sweeter still and far more fit it is to live for one's country. And you Americans and we British will be best living for our countries if we make our lives worthy of the high opportunities which are before us today, making peace secure and abiding and tying the knot of friendship between our two great peoples, which, please God, shall not be loosened until the very day of judgment.

Protest Repeal of Daylight Saving Law

NEW YORK, May 29.—Mareus M. Marks, president of the National Daylight association, today sent appeals to chambers of commerce throughout the nation to join in a protest against repeal of the daylight saving law. A rider on the agricultural bill calls for its repeal.

"The repeal of the daylight saving law without giving the representatives of daylight saving a hearing, will be pernicious class legislation," he said.

Yanks on Vologda Front To Sail Home

ARCHANGEL, Tuesday, May 27. (By the Associated Press.)—The first American unit to sail for home will be a battalion which has held the Vologda railway front. The new American infantry and engineer detachments still in the front-line positions are fighting in continuous daylight. There is no midnight sun, but for two or three hours after 11 o'clock at night, there is a hazy twilight over northern Russia.

The inhabitants of villages along the Tserki coast, which is the land-locked southern shore of the Kola peninsula, have been relieved from starvation by an American Red Cross ship, which has returned here after penetrating the ice floes. This ship, which is commanded by Captain J. B. Clewell of Bellingham, Wash., was the first craft to visit the villages since the American Red Cross ship was there last autumn.

Large crowds, including American and Russian soldiers, witnessed a parade today of the British relief force, which arrived here yesterday. All the British soldiers are picked men and created a fine impression. They were agreeably disappointed to find, instead of Arctic conditions, warm bright sunshine and green grass.

Severe Stomach Pains Corrected Says Maine Man

Found No Relief From Indigestion Until He Tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

A pale skin means a pale stomach. When your face becomes sallow it is a warning that the whole system is pale and inefficient. Good, rich blood means a good color. When the blood is weak the color not only disappears but the stomach and nerves revolt, causing pain and distress. The victim becomes exhausted easily and finds sleep difficult, his heart palpitates and he is frequently subject to headaches and dizzy spells. When the blood is built up new life and energy are carried to every part of the body. The nerves are strengthened, the processes of digestion become natural and the color returns.

Mr. S. A. Regan, of No. 25 Oxford street, Portland, Me., found the tonic to build up his weakened system and he is glad to recommend the remedy to others.

"For more than thirty years I had suffered from stomach trouble," says Mr. Regan. "It was caused, originally, I believe, by a severe strain received when I was jammed against a building by a horse. I had taken many remedies but without benefit and there were almost constant pains in my stomach. Food distressed me, causing gas. I was very weak and completely run down, my skin was sallow and I couldn't sleep well."

"A friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me and I procured a box. I could see a decided improvement in my condition after a few days' treatment and continued taking the remedy for months until I had completely recovered. As my appetite improved I gained strength and the pains entirely disappeared. I eat with pleasure now and no longer have to diet. I owe my present good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and have recommended the remedy to my friends."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., on receipt of price, 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50. Write for free booklets on nervous disorders and diet.—Adv.

BILLY ROCHE BACK FROM OVERSEAS

Billy Roche, noted the world over as one of the most competent referees who ever stepped into a ring to judge a sparring contest or finish fight, has returned from overseas where, for more than six months, he served as a Knight of Columbus secretary.

While abroad Roche refereed many contests in France, was a big figure in the king's boxing tournament, London, and for three months refereed six nights each week at contests staged for the army of occupation in Germany.

Roche says the doughboy is the best and most enthusiastic fighting fan in the world. He is for everybody getting a fair square deal and never "squeaks" over a decision—no matter whether his favorite wins or loses. Just now, Roche says the American soldier is all wrapped up in baseball and, thanks to the Knights of Columbus, has enough equipment at hand so he may indulge in the sport any time he feels so inclined.

Roche will be heard from in the very near future with a plan to internationalize the sport of boxing and will visit Washington very soon to advocate certain legislation that would, he says, pave the way for the realization of his plans in that direction.

Y.M.C.A. GAMES ON COMMON TOMORROW

About 40 entries have been received for the open amateur track and field meet to be held tomorrow morning on the South common under Y.M.C.A. auspices. The games are scheduled to start at 9 o'clock with trial heats of the century dash as the opening number. The best athletes in the city are entered, including several from the high school, Y.M.C.A. and Greek society. The program includes: 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, quarter mile, half mile, mile, relay race, pole vault, discus throw, running high jump, 13-pound shot put and a special event, the Greek 14-pound stone throw. Business men of the city have offered suitable cups for the place winners. Mayor Perry D. Thompson will be the referee.

BIG ENTRY LIST FOR BUNTLING GAMES

Nearly 75 names have been received for entry in the track and field meet to be held under the auspices of the Bunting club at Bunting park Saturday afternoon. Practically all of the better known athletic clubs of the state are sending first class representations. The 10-mile special event will be a feature of the program. Jimmy and Tom Hennigan, the plugging brothers from Forchester are entered as well as another Hennigan, first name, Jimmy, who does not claim any relationship to the other two, but does claim as good a track reputation.

The athletic committee met last night and the handicaps given by Hugh McGrath of the B.A.A. were announced. Several scratch men are in the list. A large crowd is expected and the club will conduct the meet along the most efficient and expeditious lines.

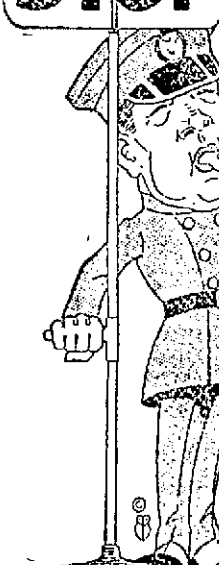

HARVARD DECLINES TO MEET COMBINATION YALE EIGHT ON THAMES RIVER

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 29.—Harvard has declined to meet a combination Yale eight on the Thames river next month, and the idea of Coach Maister Abbott has been abandoned. In the Yale squad, however, there will be four varsity and four freshmen substitutes who will practice as an eight. They will be regularly coached and can be used in the selected crews at a moment's notice.

Couch Abbott says that the Yale varsity crew has been practically selected. It rowed 10 miles yesterday and the combination worked well. Its improvement has been marked the past few days. The freshman eight for the American Henley in a workout yesterday was said by Coach Abbott to have shown a more powerful drive and smoother recovery than in any previous row. It's time for the Henley distance was 5.21.

FOR ARMY OF 509,000 MEN

Atty. Gen. Palmer Speaks at Chicago—Tells of Work as Alien Custodian

Says Germans Will Not Be Welcomed Here For a Decade at Least

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Secretary Baker today renewed before the house military committee his recommendation that congress provide a temporary army of 509,000 men.

"I am not asking for any increase in the permanent military establishment," the secretary said. "All I am asking for is sufficient money to provide for an army of 509,000. The question of adoption of legislation providing for an increase in the permanent army is a question which congress can take up later. The great need now is quick action on the appropriation bill."

General March, chief of staff, told the committee that demobilization was proceeding so rapidly that every man in France could be back in this country within four months if an army of occupation in Europe were not needed.

"Until a definite international policy is worked out, however," General March declared, "we must maintain an army of occupation there. This army will soon be reduced, however, to the regular division."

The number of men in camps in this country also was being rapidly reduced, the general said.

Military education in all schools above the primary grades, was thought advisable by Secretary Baker.

"The experience of the army in France showed that military instructions was advisable," said Mr. Baker.

Committee members questioned the secretary closely on the war department's policy on the size of the army in case advance were made for the maintenance of 500,000 men. They pointed out that the standing law provides for an army of only 175,000 men and that all others must be discharged within four months after the completion of demobilization.

"The number of men will be reduced in the future authorized unless a change in the international situation arises which might make a larger force necessary," said Mr. Baker. "In that event, congress will be asked to change the law."

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 29.—Opening with a steady tone, today's stock market soon developed greater firmness under the lead of shippings, equipments, oils and metals. Features were Marine preferred, Baldwin Locomotive, Mexican Petroleum and American Smelting. United States Steel selling ex-dividend of 1 1/2 per cent. made a fractional advance, approximating the year's highest quotation, 5 1/2. Allied Industries showed little change. Food shares, leather, tobacco and textiles recorded moderate gains. Investment rails were flat, but slightly higher.

Rails came briskly forward later, their strength fully offsetting intermittent selling and irregularity elsewhere. Southern Pacific recovered its quarterly dividend and an additional 1 1/2, a total of 3 1/2 points, and American Smelting also made up its dividend. Mining stocks were unusually active and independent steels kept pace with U. S. Steel, which made a new high for the year. American Woolen led the leather and food shares improved upon early quotations and tractions strengthened. Shippings were the only uncertain feature. Marine preferred forfeited its gain.

Trading dwindled at midday, leaders showing few changes of note aside from the strength of standard rails, notably Atchafalpa, Northwestern and Reading. Crucible Steel, Baldwin Locomotive and Industrial Alcohol recorded extreme advances of 1 1/2, 1 1/2 and 3 1/2 points and local utilities were in further demand.

Shippings, especially Marine preferred, weakened in the last hour, but the general list moved to higher level on renewed buying of oils, motors, toils and specialties. The closing was strong.

LACONIA, N. H., May 29.—Lieut. Commander W. C. Richardson, U.S.N., of Newton, Mass., his son, Frederick G. Richardson, and Miss E. M. Madison of Auburndale, Mass., were instantly killed today when an automobile driven by Commander Richardson was struck by the Montreal express at the Winnisquam crossing of the Boston & Maine railroad. A fourth occupant of the machine, a young nephew of Miss Madison, was seriously hurt.

The party was on the way from Newton to Aquinnah lake where Commander Richardson had a summer cottage for the holidays. Mrs. Richardson, another son, Robert, and a baby daughter, Mary, were in another car following that which was struck by the train.

DID NOT BEAT NC-4 RECORD

PARIS, May 29.—The French press was mistaken in its statement that the recent flight of Lieut. Rogel, who flew to Morocco last Saturday, had beaten the record of the NC-4 in flying from Newfoundland to the Azores, according to M. Breguet, constructor of the airplane which Lieut. Rogel used.

M. Breguet points out that the distance from Paris to Rabat is not 2200 kilometers (1365 miles) as was stated, but 1800 kilometers (1116 miles) and that Rogel started from a point several kilometers south of Paris and landed before reaching Rabat.

SWEENEY MAKES HEROIC RESCUE

Charles Courser, aged 10 years, an orphan, who is making his home with the Misses Connors at the corner of Fayette and Chestnut streets, had a very narrow escape from drowning Tuesday noon, while playing on a raft in the Concord river, when he went over the falls at the foot of Howe St.

The little fellow had gone to the bottom of the river for the third time when he was heroically rescued by Felix T. Sweeney of 516 Lawrence street, an employee of the Wamsutt Paper mill. The little boy received bad cuts about the head when he went over the falls, while his rescuer was also cut about the legs while wading in the water to save the lad.

FEAST OF THE ASCENSION

BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT WIRE DESPATCHES

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Elaborate anti-American propaganda being conducted in Brazil is believed by state department officials to be the work of European business men, who hope to alienate Brazilian business from the United States.

BOSTON, May 29.—Nelson Arturo de Lynn, awaiting extradition to Arizona, where he is said to be wanted on a larceny charge, shot himself in the head at the courthouse today. Hospital physicians said his condition was critical.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Increases in commissions for cotton sold on the New York Cotton exchange were approved today by the board of managers, and the members will vote on them June 2.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 29.—The Canadian corps cavalry brigade, which returned today from overseas service aboard the Carmanha, has been invited to volunteer for duty in cities affected by the widespread strike. The invitation delayed debarkation, and, although there was no rush of volunteers, most of the men expressed a willingness to serve.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Assignment of mental cases arising from war service to a sanitarium in Danville, N. Y., which is to be acquired by the treasury department, was announced today by the bureau of war risk insurance.

QUINCY, May 29.—The destroyer Gillis was launched at the Fore River yard of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation today, the fifth vessel of its kind put into the water at the plant since the start of the big war program, 18 months ago.

VERSAILLES, May 29.—(By The Associated Press)—A special train equipped with wireless telegraph apparatus which was used by German general headquarters and the emperor during the war, arrived at Versailles today.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—After a brief routine session today the senate adjourned to Monday, because of the absence of many senators for Memorial day addresses and vacations.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 29.—Premier Borden and a delegation from Toronto conferred today in an effort to prevent the general strike in Toronto, called for tomorrow morning.

PARIS, May 29.—(Havas).—President Wilson, the Temps says, has given his approval to an agreement on the Adriatic question accepted by Premier Orlando of Italy. The president was expected to have a conference today with the Jugo-Slav delegates.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Ten hours after the Julia Luckenbach, which arrived here today had left Bordeaux, a drifting mine was sighted. While the ship circled it, the troopers fired 200 shots at it, filling it with holes and it sank without exploding. A few hours later the transport Lancaster wireless that she had sighted several mines and had sunk one.

CITY-WIDE HUNT FOR WASTE AND SCRAP

Inspired by the knowledge that they are helping the Lowell Guild to spread its baby welfare work, Lowell people seem determined not to leave one scrap of waste undiscovered in their homes. Through the length and breadth of the city women are buzzing with waste campaign talk, and much amusement is being expressed over the amount of old rags, worn-out and useless clothing, and all sorts of useless and cast-off things that can be found in even the smallest household.

The campaign workers have nearly completed the distribution of the bags and the collection will start in a few days. There is no doubt that the crop of waste will be bumper one, for Lowell people are glad of this frugal way to assist the guild in raising funds.

Through eight years of steady upward growth, the guild has spread its work, until now ten district nurses leave the guild house daily to make rounds of visits to the sick in all parts of the city. Each nurse makes a short visit to every patient on her list, doing whatever services require special nursing skill and instructing some member of the family in the scientific and sanitary methods of caring for the sick person. A fee of 55 cents is charged to all who are able to pay this sum.

Part of the nursing work includes instructing mothers in how to properly clothe and feed their babies, and special attention is given to this work, as the management considers teaching health measures one of the more important phases of caring for sickness. In addition to the baby welfare work done by the district nurse, a baby welfare station is maintained at the guild house, where babies are examined and weighed in the weekly conferences.

Slender results have been secured from the baby welfare work already and the officers hope to extend it a great deal further with the co-operation of public-spirited Lowell people. While the district nursing is partly self-supporting, the baby welfare work is entirely free, and it is for the support and furtherance of this work that the funds from the waste campaign will be used.

MR. ROGERS' APPEAL

He Would Validate Policies of Soldiers Who Died After Filing Application

Special to The Sun

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 29.—Congressman Rogers of the fifth Massachusetts district has taken up with the treasury department the matter of paying insurance to the families of men who had made application for such war risk, but who died in camp very soon after. Under a former ruling of the department such policies were invalidated and the families deprived of the benefit intended by congress to all soldiers who applied for insurance and who died in the service. Mr. Rogers believes such a ruling to be unjust and Acting Secretary Shouse, with whom Mr. Rogers took the matter up, has advised him that a reversal of the ruling is probable and has asked Mr. Rogers to aid the war risk bureau by suggesting some method or policy which will better the situation. In case the former decision is reversed the old cases, formerly denied, will be reopened.

High School Field Day

town street, passing in review at city hall before Mayor Perry D. Thompson and members of the city government. The units formed in Paige and Kick streets at 12.30 o'clock the girls leading. The United States Cartridge Co. band played tuneful marching music and the high school drum corps kept the boys in strict cadence.

It would be hard to picture a more striking parade than that formed by the girls in their white skirts and middie blouses and white shoes and stockings, each battalion wearing designating colored arm bands and flowing ties. The blue serge suits of the officers trimmed with gold insignia braid contrasted effectively with the moving sea of spotless white.

The boys looked more business-like, but even they were all dressed up for the occasion. It is always a gripping fear prior to field day that rain will fall and ruin stiffly starched trousers, but the sun shone smilingly today and the boy soldiers never looked better in their white trousers, blue coats and canvas leggings. The non-commissioned officers wore the customary blue and white piping, while the blue and gold of the commissioned men added dignity and color to the scheme.

After passing city hall the battalions turned back toward Merrimack square where the girls left the line of march and were hustled into waiting special electric for the trip to the park. The boys, however, after looking longingly after the speeding cars turned into Central street and proceeded to the park on foot by way of Central, Church and Rogers streets.

Every available chair, camp stool and point of vantage was occupied when the regiment, led by Col. Curtis Rice, Jr., turned in at the park gates. As the boys came on to the field eight companies marching in column of squads, they were applauded to the echo. The girls already were on the field and at once both girls and boys combined in the maneuvers of the assembly or salute to the colors.

Beautiful regimental and battalion standards were brought to the front and the ceremony was made extremely impressive.

It was the object of those in charge to conduct the exercises this year with as much promptness as possible and well thought plans had been made in preparation. Immediately at the close of the assembly the field was cleared and the three companies previously picked from the boys' regiment in an elimination drill were marched on to drill for the company prizes—the blue and red standards and the captain's sword for the best appearing company. From the grandstand it was indeed difficult to pick a flaw in the marchings of the three units, but the judges were busy with pad and pencil so evidently saw slips not visible to the majority of spectators. The awards were withheld until the close of the program.

First Unit on Field

A company, Capt. Patrick Mullane, commanding, was the first unit on the drill field. They were followed by a company, Capt. Eugene Dooley, B company, Capt. John Tiffany. The judges were Capt. Horton Page, Co. H, 16th regiment, state guard, of Andover, Capt. Albert Bergeron, Co. K, 16th regiment, Lieut. Loring Kew, Co. C, 16th regiment, Lieut. A. Goldman, 16th regiment, battalion adjutant and L. L. George, Crowell, 306th Machine Gun battalion, 17th Division, U.S.A.

The sophomore girls gave a combination wand and dumbbell drill, led by Major Beatrice Dowling and Major Helen Carley. They executed the movements in perfect unison and made the difficult group exercise a distinct feature.

Company A of the boys' regiment did not seem to mind the hot sun and went through a vigorous hayonet drill. The junior girls were the next on the field and they were led in a program of free arm exercises by Maj. Rita Jackson and Maj. Louise Harrison. More individual interest was manifested in the individual prize drill for boys than in any other number on the program.

Fifteen of the best drillers of the regiment were put through a severe test in the manual of arms by

LOWELL HEBREWS HOLD MASS MEETING

That the Jews in Poland are being mercilessly slain, that their homes are being plundered, business establishments demolished and synagogues destroyed, and that only recently 2200 Jews were killed and 10,000 deported from the country was the statement made by Atty. Bennett Silverblatt at a mass meeting of Lowell Hebrews held in Colonial theatre in Odd Fellows building last evening to protest against the atrocities which the Poles are alleged to have committed upon the Jews in Poland and the Ukraine.

The meeting was well attended, and several talented local and out-of-town speakers were present, including Rabbi J. J. Gurman of Boston, Mayor Thompson, Rabbi Elias Wolfson, Frank Goldman and others. Atty. Silverblatt presided, and at the close of the meeting resolutions condemning the outrages against the Jews, and asking the peace conference for justice were adopted and a copy forwarded to President Wilson.

Atty. Silverblatt was the first speaker, and said that it was inconceivable that Poland, which a short time ago had won its freedom after having lived for centuries under the heel of Russian oppression should initiate its government with the murder of helpless men, women and children.

The treatment which our fellow countrymen are receiving, the speaker declared, was the outcome of the jealousy which had existed for several years, and which was caused by reason of the Jews outstripping the Poles in the few activities in which they were permitted to engage.

That the Jews are not asking any power to send an army to kill the participants in these outrages, was the speaker's final statement. He added that the object of the mass meetings which are being held throughout the country, was to protest against the treatment of the Jews, and to call them to the attention of the civilized world in order that the oppressors should be warned that once and for all these brutalities must cease.

Rabbi Gurman was the next speaker and made an impassioned speech in which he denounced the injustice of the atrocities and the massacre on his countrymen at the hands of the Poles, and expressed the hope that President Wilson would intervene in their behalf.

Rabbi Wolfson, the next speaker, said that the reports from Poland showed that the treatment of the Jews is rapidly becoming worse, and that it was high time something should be done by the civilized powers to put a check to it. At Chynow over 100 Jewish women were driven partly dressed from their homes, he said, and forced to tramp for miles in the biting cold under military escort to the next town.

At the close of his speech he called for the singing of a memorial service by Samuel Kopelman, a cantor of this city, who in his official black and white robe, made an impressive figure as he sang the wonderfully weird and solemn service.

Mayor Thompson said that he was very glad to be able to show by his presence that he believed in their cause, and expressed the hope that the resolutions forwarded to the president would result in favorable action being taken in their behalf. He also spoke of the Jewish boys from Lowell who went overseas to do their bit for their adopted country.

Frank Goldman was the final speaker, and emphasized the work done by the Jewish boys in the great conflict. The war had been fought that democracy should reign supreme throughout the world, he said, but Poland had still continued to oppress the Jews after her own freedom had been assured.

The committee in charge consisted of Frank Goldman, Solomon Baker, Bennett Silverblatt, A. S. Goldman, J. Quinn, and Max Goldman.

NEW CLUB FOR LOWELL

Club Formed at First Congregational Church Will Help Young Men

A new club was formed at the First Congregational church Tuesday evening. Preceding the organizing work there was a chafing dish supper served by 15 women of the church in pretty summer gowns. Then followed a half hour of community singing with Leader Brown in charge. The noted Boston speaker, "Sailor" Ryan, gave a half hour's patriotic talk which was listened to with great interest.

It was announced that the purpose of the gathering and of the club coming into existence was to have for its principal object the helping of young men to obtain an education by extending unostentatious financial help. It is hoped the club may attain a membership of 400 members by next fall. The club intends to make the element of friendliness, sociability and civic good works, the paramount objects of the work to be done by it.

Any young man in the city of good morals from any church or who may in fact not be a church attendant at all, may become eligible to be helped towards securing an education by funds of the club.

The officers elected at the organization meeting are as follows: Chas. L. Randall, president; Otis N. Butler, vice president; Richard Brabrook Walsh, clerk; Charles T. Upton, treasurer, and members of the executive committee, Rev. Chauncey J. Hawkins, Dr. Victor E. Darling, John Chalmers, Edwin S. Morrison and Fred B. Sweet.
